

Time to vote

State ballot measures up for a vote this November will be:

Measure 1, which allows the state to issue up to $250 million in general obligation bonds for state parks and recreation facilities.

Measure 2 which would allow the legislature to dedicate future motor vehicle fuel tax increases for state park purposes.

Measure 3 would limit terms for legislature, statewide offices and congressional offices.

Measure 4 would ban operation of triple truck-trailer combinations on Oregon highways.

Measure 5 will close Trojan nuclear power plant until nuclear waste, cost, earthquake and health conditions are met.

Measure 6 will ban Trojan power operation unless earthquake and waste storage conditions are met.

Measure 7 will raise the tax limit on property other than owner-occupied residential property.

Measure 8 would restrict lower Columbia fish harvests and Measure 9 will amend the constitution so that the government cannot facilitate and will discourage homosexuality.

On a national level, voters will decide between presidential and vice-presidential candidates George Bush and Dan Quayle, Republican party; Bill Clinton and Al Gore, Democratic party; Ross Perot and James Stockdale, Independent party; Andre Marrou and Nancy Lord, Libertarian party; and Lenora B. Fulani and Maria Elizabeth Munoz, New Alliance party.

Democrat Les AuCoin and Republican incumbent Bob Packwood will face off for U.S. Senator and incumbent Republican Bob Smith and Denzel Ferguson, Democrat, will oppose each other for U.S. Representative in congress, second district.

In state positions Phil Keisling, D; Sara D. Lyons, NA; Randy Miller, R; and Shaun Savage, L will vie for the secretary of state spot.

Three candidates are seeking the state treasurer's position: Rose Marie Borchers, NA; David Chen, R; and Jim Hill, D.

In the attorney general's office Democrat Ted Kulongoski, Libertarian Fred Oerther and Republican Rich Rodeman will go against each other.

Chamber Chatter

By Claudia Hughes, Chamber Manager

Last week I was in Bend for the annual OCE (Oregon Chamber Execs) conference. It was an excellent conference dealing with the benchmarks of an effective chamber; beyond the year 2000; and membership, information I will share in later columns. For the first time I was able to take a doorprize with honest-to-goodness made in Morrow County items. There's a real opportunity here for someone to put together gift baskets promoting our county. This one contained a beautiful pine needle basket made by Harriet Pierson, Cinnamon from Terrie Cutsforth, Oregon Popcorn and spices from Brewers, Historical Society stationary, brochures, etc.

There are still spaces for the Hospitality Training Workshop for owners, managers, and employees to be held November 4 in Boardman and November 5 in Heppner. The cost is $5. Call the chamber 676-5536 or 676-5349 for further information.

Grab that Halloween costume if you work on Main Street, Heppner. Some very interesting judges will be around between 3:30 and 6 p.m. on Thursday to judge the most "spooktacular" business costume participation and the best individual costume. What fun, come out for the moonlight sale and meet the spooks.

Next week: Chamber board and business meeting.

Thought for the week: "Only when one is connected to one's own core is one connected to others."...Anne Morrow Lindberg

Gordon Smith, Republican will challenge incumbent Scott Duff for state senator, 29th district. Wes Cooley, Republican will challenge incumbent Wayne Fawbush, Democrat, for state senator 28th district. Chuck Norris, Republican is unopposed for state representative 57th district.

On the county level, local attorney Ann Spicer, Democrat, will oppose incumbent Louis Carlson, Republican for the Morrow County Judge position. Ed Glenn, R, Boardman and Don McElligott, D, Ione will face off for the spot vacated by Gerry Peck, Boardman, who didn't file.

County assessor Greg Sweek, county clerk Barbara Bloodsworth, county surveyor Denny Edwards and county treasurer Margo Sherer, all Democrats are unopposed.

Jeff Wallace, Morrow County District Attorney, Heppner and Judge Peter Fels, Pendleton, are opposing each other for the non-partisan position of the Morrow-Umatilla counties district court judge department 2. Incumbent Fels was appointed by Governor Barbara Roberts to fill the position vacated by the retirement of Judge Ralph Currin. Incumbents Suan Graber, judge of the supreme court, position seven, and Robert D. Durham, judge of the court of appeals position five, were both unopposed, as was incumbent Morrow County Sheriff Roy Drago.

Three four-year directors for the Morrow Soil and Water Conservation District are unopposed: Vernon Frederickson for zone 2, Rudy Bergstrom for zone 3 and Keith Rea, at large. No one filed for a four-year director spot at large.

Joyce Breeding will challenge incumbent Martha Doherty for the four-year Heppner city council position no. 1. The remaining four-year council positions, Chuck Holt for position no. 2; Kathryn Robinson position no. 3; and two-year spots LoRayne Bowman, no. 5 and David Pranger for position no. 6 are all unopposed as is two-year mayoral candidate Robert Jepsen.

In the city of Lexington, Susan Baker and Susan Lankford will vie for a four year term as mayor and three candidates, John Edwards, Gary Munkers and Gene Orwick will vie for two four-year terms on the city council.

Linda LaRue is unopposed for a two-year term as mayor of Ione, but only two candidates, Jim Boor and Cleo Childers have filed for three four-year terms on the Ione city council.

In Boardman, William C. Brown is unopposed for a four-year term as mayor. Seven candidates, however, have filed for three four-year terms on the Boardman city council: Jim Hankins, David L. Hendricks, David L. Hirai, Melvin E. Lappen, Raymond D. Michael, Max G. Muir and Jay H. Robinson.

In Irrigon only three candidates are on the ballot for four-year positions on the city council: Donald Eppenbach, Donald W. Hurd and Raymond M. Shade.

Cardinals take on Blue Devils

The lone Cardinals didn't wrap this one up until the fourth quarter, but when it was all over the birds came out on top of the Condon Blue Devils 50-18 in Big Sky action last Friday night.

Defense played a big part of the scoring, when the Cards returned a total of three pass interceptions for touchdowns. Ione only led by 10 points in the third quarter, but broke the game open with three TDs in the fourth.

Timber Endorses Fawbush

Frank Pearson, General Manager of Kinzua Corporation, handing Wayne Fawbush the endorsement of the Oregon Forest Industries Council's political arm for this year's election.

"With his help the Oregon Forest Resources Institute was created to provide public understanding of the timber industry's long term importance to the state of Oregon. Wayne is well aware of Oregon's resource based economy and continues to facilitate consensus building."

Frank Pearson, General Manager, Kinzua Corporation 10/9/92

Wayne Fawbush "...cast the crucial vote against the measure (the bill to set aside 30,000 acres of forest) after he failed to gain any support for a compromise proposal that would advise the Forest Service on how to manage Opal Creek...Environmentalists were angered by Fawbush's vote, while timber industry officials said they appreciated the legislator's attempt to find some middle ground."

OREGONIAN 4/12/89

"I just wanted to extend a note of thanks for your energetic support of local industry in resource issues in this state such as timber supply, field burning and regional strategies. I feel the silent folks are aware of your efforts and will show their appreciation at election time."

Bob Wilson, Region Manager, Boise Cascade 6/22/89

"Your intervention...to get the bill (HB 2419, the industry's key bill) into your committee and out of the hands of Senator Springer was the key. You were certainly there for us on this bill when we desperately needed your help-and we appreciate that."

Kelly Conover, Manager Government Affairs, Weyerhouser 3/5/92
