Merry Brannon gives much to campfire

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to let the community know what a great job Merry Brannon has done as campfire leader. She has given so much of her time, not only to regular meetings but, evening phone calls, and numerous weekends, selling candy, working on a float or getting things ready for upcoming meetings.

Being a campfire leader is not a paid position. It is strictly donated time and effort. Since the beginning of the year it seems like Merry has had very little kind words spoken to her and a lot of criticism. The classes she is teaching are twice as big as in other towns. This makes for chaos for one leader and one helper. Campfire could really benefit from parents who could volunteer their time to help out at meetings. After attending a few meetings myself a little extra help could really make a big difference and help things go more smoothly for Merry and the kids.

The assistant leader is Cindy Kennedy and Bob and Aloha DeSpain also donate alot of their time for behind the scenes dedication.

People like Merry don't come along every day, and it would sure be nice if we could all let her know how much we appreciate all her hard work. Hopefully she won't be too burnt out to tackle it again next year.

North Lex Livestock Sheep Club

By Levi Geer, reporter
On Sunday, Feb. 21 the North Lex Livestock Club toured the Superior Farms.

People attending were Kim Bedortha, John Doherty and the leader Stacey Wainwright.

Glen Krebs was the tour guide for the afternoon. He told the group that when they unloaded the sheep from the trucks, they put the loading chute over the fence to unload the lambs in order to keep them from returning to the gates. They do this so they know where their food and water was. They also use mud blocks instead of salt blocks because the sheep couldn't get as good a lick as a cow can on a salt block.

When the sheep have feet problems they put a special foot bath mix in front of the watering trough so when the sheep get a drink they help their feet.

They put laundry detergent in with their salt so when the sheep finish eating it will help them get the gas out of their stomachs. This keeps the sheep from bloating and dying. Glen starts the sheep out on haylage then move them to corn.

Pontius Pilate to 'visit' Lutherans

Pontius Pilate, the governor of Judea, will share his impressions of the last days of Jesus' life prior to his crucifixion at the mid-week Lenten service at Valby and Hope Lutheran Churches. Pilate will visit the Valby congregation on the Ione-Gooseberry road on Wed. at 7 p.m. following the soup supper at 6 p.m. On Thursday, he will be in Heppner at Hope Lutheran near the Willow Creek Dam. There will be soup and sandwich supper at 6:00 p.m. and he will be present at the 7:00 p.m. worship service. His talk will be "I Am Innocent of This Man's Blood" based on a scripture reading of Matthew 27:1-31.

On Sunday, March 28, Pastor Stan Hoobing will preach at Valby Lutheran Church, 9 a.m. and later at 11 a.m. at Hope Lutheran Church in Heppner. "It is a Martha and Mary World" will be the theme of the sermon, based on reading of John 11:1-53.

New Class of Medicines for Mental Depression

An estimated 13 million Americans suffer from major mental depressive disorders. Studies indicate that about 15 percent of older persons suffer from depression but many depressed persons do not obtain medical attention. Of those who seek help, many are not receiving the care they need. According to a report in American Pharmacy, a paper presented at a recent National Institutes of Health conference indicated that more than 60 percent of the elderly who suffer from depression are not receiving appropriate treatment.

The good news about all of this is that 80 to 90 percent of persons with depression can be helped. Two important forms of care for treating depression include antidepressant medicines and psychotherapy (counseling by psychiatrists and other mental health experts).

Until recently the most effective antidepressant medicines were the tricyclic compounds and the monoamine oxidase inhibitors. The newest antidepressant medicines are referred to as selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors. This class of medicines includes fluoxetine (Prozac), sertraline (Zoloft), and paroxetine (Paxil). These medicines are thought to increase brain levels of a chemical called "serotonin". Some studies have shown that the newer medicines are as effective as other antidepressants, but produce fewer side effects, in many instances.
