Fiber arts show to debut in Heppner

"By My Hand", the annual regional fiber arts show and sale, will open at the Morrow County Museum on Tuesday, September 7 and run through September 26.

Sponsored by the Country Fibre Artists guild, Heppner; Oregon Trail Fibers, Pendleton; and Blue Mountain Weavers of Walla Walla, WA, the exhibit showcases rugs, vests, sweaters and other natural fiber, handmade items. The show will be juried by a panel of judges including Birdine Tullis, retired OSU extension agent of Lone; Vera Simon-ton, fiber artist/teacher of Pendleton and Keiko Hara artist/teacher, Whitman College, Walla Walla. Awards will be made in each of the five categories: handwoven/non-wearable, handwoven/wearable, handspun (then handknit, crocheted, etc.), felting and basketry. Stringent professional criteria will be applied and, in addition to the category awards (ribbons handwoven especially for By My Hand), the judges will award a Best of Show. Hand-weavers Guild of America and Interweave Press will also make special awards.

By My Hand will open at the Museum with a public reception at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, September 7, which will feature a scholars presentation by Sandra Van Liew on the history of sheep growing in this area with a special emphasis on the unusual Jacob breed. Following the opening, the exhibit can be viewed during the museum's regular hours: 1-5 p.m. Saturday through Wednesday; closed Thursday and Friday. Following its venue in Heppner, By My Hand will travel to Pendleton and Walla Walla.

This year in honor of the Oregon Trail Sesquicentennial Celebration, the role of fiber artists in preserving heritage skills will be explored. Partial funding for the show comes through the Oregon Council for the Humanities under a grant to the OCH by the National Endowment for the Humanities.
