

St. Patrick's Senior Center Bulletin Board

There were 103 people in attendance at the senior dinner Nov. 10. Four meals were sent out. Sue Vinson won the free meal ticket, Ruth Nutting the door prize and the guest prize went to Irene Newell. Ladies from the Catholic Church did the serving. The Senior Center Board met following the meal.

The menu for the birthday dinner Nov. 24 will be pork patties with mushroom gravy, twice baked potatoes, tossed salad, corn, fruit, cake and ice cream. Members of the Baptist and Christian Missionary Fellowship Churches will serve.

The bus took a group of seniors to the health meeting in Boardman Wednesday evening Nov. 10.

Saturday, Nov. 13, a large crowd shopped at the craft bazaar in the dining room. There was a large variety of articles for sale.

There was one table of cards in play Friday, Nov. 12. Eight people attended the movie "Every Which Way But Loose" Sunday, Nov. 14.

The quilters will finish a tied quilt next week. They will not meet again until after the new year. Tickets are still available on the Christmas tree skirt at the senior office. The drawing will be at the artfactory Dec. 4.

The seniors will have a table at the Artfactory and need craft articles to sell.

The bus trip that had been planned for Tuesday has been changed to Thursday, Nov. 18. The bus leaves for Goldendale at 8:30 a.m. Merri Reamer has lots of things planned for the enjoyment of our senior group, including dinner at the senior center.

Dates to remember: Monday, Bible study in the office, 10:30 a.m. quilting 1-4 in the dining room; Tues. and Thurs. exercise in the sitting room, 10 a.m. Tues., knitting class in the dining room, 7 p.m.; Friday cards, 2:30 p.m., sitting room; Sunday, movie, 6 p.m.

Amy Gantenbein listed in Who's Who

Amy Gantenbein, Boardman, has been included in the 27th annual edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students" 1992-93. Gantenbein attends Western Oregon State College.

"Who's Who", published by Educational Communications, Inc., Lake Forest, Illinois, is the largest high school recognition publication in the country. Students are nominated by high school principals and guidance counselors, national youth groups, churches or by the publishing company based upon students' performance in scholarship award contests or extracurricular activities.

Final selection is determined on the basis of criteria which include high achievement in academics and leadership in school activities, athletics or community service. Traditionally, 99 percent of "Who's Who" students have a grade point average of 'B' or better and 97 percent are college bound.

The 27th edition of "Who's Who", published in 16 regional volumes, features nearly 725,000 students or just over 5 percent of the nation's 12,000,000 high school students. They represent approximately 15,000 of the 22,000 public, private and parochial high schools in the country.

"Who's Who" students also compete for $125,000 in scholarship awards and participate in the publication's annual opinion poll of teen attitudes. The book is distributed to up to 15,000 high schools, colleges, universities and public libraries throughout the country.

Twenty-four participate in wool contest

By Anne Morter

Twenty-four contestants modeled wool outfits last Thursday, November 11 at Lone High School, vying for prizes and trips in this year's District 5 Make It Yourself With Wool contest. Winners in the adult, senior and junior divisions, Roberta Anderson of Pilot Rock, Jimmi Kaye Alexander of Milton-Freewater and Julie Anderson of Pilot Rock respectively, qualified for the state Make It Yourself With Wool Contest to be held December 4 in Florence.

Anderson is the matriarch of a "Make It Yourself With Wool dynasty", with daughter Julie winning the junior division and another daughter competing for a state spot in a Portland area district, the Andersons should be well represented at the state contest. Roberta made and modeled a wool pant suit in shades of light and dark teal. The fully lined jacket and pants were accessorized with a scarf and gold earrings. This was Roberta's second Make It Yourself With Wool contest with the last being 18 years ago.

Marianne Kahl of Heppner was the adult runner-up in a V-neck cardigan jacket and matching straight skirt. Coincidentally, her fabric was very similar to Anderson's. Marianne's enthusiasm for the contest caused her to purchase three extra lengths of fabric for her fabric "stash". She admitted to having several pieces of Pendleton wool in her collection that she bought nine years ago for $5 a yard.

Jimmi Kaye Alexander once again took top honors in the senior division. After winning for the past several years, this is her final year as a senior contestant. Jimmi's outfit this year was a jacket and straight skirt topped with a swing coat, all made of Pendleton wool. The skirt and jacket were done in navy with a contrasting check. Her outfit featured extensive detailed construction work, including bound buttonholes, covered buttons and front welts.

Julie Anderson's plaid Pendleton jacket and red walking shorts were tops in the junior division. Julie, a ninth grader at Pilot Rock High School, made a semi-fitted, below the hip length jacket with a notched collar and welt pockets. Her shorts were wide-legged with cuffs and a side front pocket. Her outfit was completed by gold and red earrings, a red hair bow and a tie.

Mandi Gutierrez, a freshman at Heppner High School, was the junior runner-up in the black and white houndstooth checked suit. She accessorized the outfit with a red beret, red leather gloves and button earrings to match her jacket buttons.

Shelby Krebs, an 11 year old from Lone, won the pre-teen division in her first Make It Yourself With Wool Contest. Using berry and black, she made an eye-catching outfit of walking shorts and matching vest. Western conchos on the vest and on her hair bow set the outfit apart.

Jeanie Thomsen of The Dalles was the pre-teen runner-up in a Scottish plaid, 100 percent Pendleton wool vest and skirt. She accessorized with red earrings and necklace, red shoes and a matching rosette for her hair.

District director Maureen Krebs reports that the turnout was the largest she has ever had and that a good sized audience was present for the style show. She noted that the judges were quite impressed with the beautiful wools the contestants had chosen as well as the choice of accessories.

Sponsors for this year's event were West Ranches, Bank of Eastern Oregon, Cunningham Sheep Company, Krebs Ranch and the Lone Extension Club.

4-H leader training scheduled

A 4-H leader training will be held Monday, Nov. 22 from 5:30 to 8 p.m. at the Morrow County Extension office.

The following topics will be covered: club start-up, club management, risk management (including insurance coverage, child abuse and club financial management). There will be a question and answer session so any concerns the new leaders may have may be addressed.

This is planned as a new leader training, but all leaders are welcome and can provide valuable information for discussion.

Because many of the leaders may be coming straight from work, there will be a hosted dinner starting at 5:30 p.m.

For more information contact Bill Broderick at the Morrow County Extension office, 676-9642.
