

Wheatland Pomona Grange has meeting

By Delpha Jones

Wheatland Pomona Grange met on Saturday, Feb. 5 at the Lexington Grange Hall with the master Mike Medlock in charge. At roll call, all officers were present but one.

Reports of various granges were heard. Greenfield reported on holding their meetings, pinocle parties and breakfasts as money makers. Willows, reported on a good Christmas party, good programs, a turkey dinner and bazaar and several chemical company dinners. Lexington reported on the Cattlemen's dinner, Christmas program, Blue Mt. Fiddlers and repair to the basement of the grange.

Distinguished guests were Jerry George, state ag chairman, Umatilla Pomona Master and the Umatilla County deputy and his wife Verla Larson, District #2; GWA chairman and husband Palmer Dorris Reid, District #6 GWA chairman and Freda Wolverton, past first lady of the grange.

It was reported that the legislative chairman was recently injured in a car accident and was unable to be present.

Ag chairman Barton Clark, turned the floor over to the state ag chairman, who gave an interesting report on irrigation and the troubles surrounding this project. He said that the sheep industry is at present having a downturn, but things hopefully will be better soon. Canola is a great crop for this area, he said, and in some places seem to be outdoing the wheat. Commercial mustard is also being studied, he said.

Mike Medlock gave a report on letters recently received from the forest service, and new operations and rules that are in the offering.

Barton Clark, Roger Scharen and Roberta Medlock were appointed to the resolution committee.

The Umatilla County degree team will be present at the Spray Grange meeting in April to give the 5th degree as it has not been given in that area for several years.

Verla Larson spoke on the GWA work, urging members to take a bigger part in the contests at the state level. She said that they definitely need more cookies each year. Each Pomona is being asked to make a quilt block for the quilt that will be raffled off at the state session in June. Dot Halvorsen will make the quilt for Wheatland. Palmer Larson said that they enjoy eastern Oregon and the farm lands. Larson said that in the valley area where they come from there are lots of nurseries, but there is not as much farming as here. Dorris Reid invited the Wheatland members to Tillicum Grange Feb. 26 and initiation at Columbia Grange Feb. 17. Mrs. George recently attended a meeting in LaGrande of the judicial department employees. She reported the need to get more locally involved instead of someone in the higher levels telling citizens what to do.

There was some discussion on the Morrow County Extension budget and the need to have a county tax. This was discussed and the resolution committee asked to write one at the dinner hour.

A dinner and cake walk was held. The program consisted of several duets on the Omnicord and violin by Frances Smouse and daughter Cheryl. Eric Fournier, an exchange student who makes his home at the Gary Munkers home in Lexington gave an interesting talk on his home Quebec, Canada. Some of the highlights of the talk included information on the buildings and how they are constructed. He also said that Quebec is 90 percent catholic. Students attend school for 11 years instead of 12. The alphabet is the same letters as ours but the spelling of words are different. He showed a health card and how it works in Canada. He said he can present it to any hospital and doctor and receive medical attention. College is less expensive there as it is financed by the government, except the books and lodging at about $3,000 a year. These are supported by a high sales tax in that area of 15 percent. There is less gang crime in Quebec but is bad in any of the large cities, he said. His father is employed with the Indian economy and his mother works as a manager for a men's boutique.

Frances Smouse was escorted to the master's station and received a certificate from Verla Larson for a donation to abused children's funds.

The resolution committee reported that Greenfield Grange's resolution on the control of Russian olive growth in areas where it is a nuisance be controlled and a resolution in favor of an extension budget for the Morrow

County, and a thank you to Lexington Grange for their hospitality were all found favorable and passed the body.

A community service report was read concerning Jeanne Spaulding of Spray. The committee met and read the report and voted it to be sent to the state for further judging.

Roll call was: Lexington-17; Greenfield-three; Willows-five; Spray-three; Columbia-four; Pleasant Valley-two and Cold Springs-two.

Chamber Chatter

By Claudia Hughes, Chamber Manager

If you pass by the Chamber office, you'll run into at least three leprechauns planning St. Pat's shenanigans. With only four weeks to go, they're hard at it. Two of the fellows will be auctioned off at the St. Pat's auction with an option to have a family name lettered on their shamrock lapel. Brochures with celebration schedules and posters are now available at the Chamber office. Heppnerites are encouraged to stop by, so celebration information can be publicized far and wide. It's important to target people with RV's and those who live within a day's drive. The celebration is offering new events along with the old familiar. Those who celebrate long and hard can have breakfast with the Heppner firemen before they retire for the night. Families will enjoy a return of the Wham A Diddle Dingbats and a possible return of the little lambs during intermission on Saturday night. Stay tuned for more.

Next week the Chamber membership will be reviewing the 1994 draft of the goals, working on the plan of action, and forming committees for the year, as well as soliciting additional auction items. Give a call if you have an item you would be able to donate to help keep the celebration going.

Thought for the week: Learn the wisdom of compromise, for it is better to bend a little than to break...J.W.

We would like to thank everyone that helped make our spaghetti feed a huge success.

We grossed over $500 towards our new baseball field. Thanks to the baseball players and their parents for an outstanding job.

A special thanks to the Morrow County Grain Growers for sponsoring our ad in the Gazette-Times. Thanks for always being a great community supporter.

Last but certainly not least thank you to the people of Heppner and Pilot Rock for attending our feed.

The field is coming together, slower than we would like, but we will make it.

Thanks again,

BMCC offers a variety of classes

By Anne Morter

Blue Mountain Community College has the following classes offered during the month of March. For registration information, contact Anne Morter, coordinator, 422-7040 or 422-7429.

Once a month cooking taught by Nancy Jepsen will begin March 3 at Ione High School. The first session meets March 3 from 6:30-8:30 p.m. to review lists of necessary ingredients. On Saturday, March 12, the class will meet from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. to prepare two week's worth of meals. This cooking method is a proven time-saver in the kitchen and offers a wide variety of recipes, many in the low fat category. Space in this class is limited with two openings remaining. Students need to contact the instructor before class to order a required text and get a list of materials. Tuition is $20.

Terry Calvert of Calvert Computer Systems in Athena will be offering several computer classes in March. Pre-registration is required to ensure an adequate number of students for the class to be held. Calvert will offer Introduction to Word Perfect March 5. He offers the basics for a powerful and widely used word processing program. This will be a question and answer format with lots of "hands on" time. The class will be held at Heppner High School from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Computer Configuration is scheduled for March 12 at Heppner High School from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. This course is designed to students will be accepted into the class so pre-registration is required. Students should call the instructor at 422-7214 for a list of supplies prior to class.

Jannie Allen will teach a class on how to make Roly Poly Dolls on March 10 from 7-9 p.m. at the district office in Lexington. Tuition is $5 plus a $3.50 lab fee paid to the instructor on the night of the class to cover cost of supplies. Jannie will show how to make a cute roly-poly Easter doll, a perfect Easter decoration. No sewing is necessary and Jannie will have patterns available for dolls to celebrate other holidays. Pre-registration is recommended. Help set up files and configure a computer. It will cover common problems in various programs, auto back-up and other related topics. Some computer experience is necessary.

The other offering is Intermediate DOS which will be offered if there is enough interest in the class. Study of the DOS system will be continued so introductory computer experience is necessary.

Tuition for all computer classes is $35.

Beginning Oil Painting will be taught by Tonya Heideman of Ione starting March 8 at the district office in Lexington from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The class will meet for three weeks and is intended for beginners only. Heideman will teach basic skills including care of brushes and paint, paint mixing and preparing the canvas. Students will also paint a beginning painting. Only
