The Trail News

By Sandi Day

Summer is again upon us and although we have been busy throughout the year working towards a successful 1994 Oregon Trail Pro Rodeo, it's now time for the busiest part of the rodeo season. The committee has grown this spring with the addition of Ken Bailey, Glenda Taylor, Celia Huffman and Mark and Elaine Miller. Welcome to all of you.

There will be many changes at this year's OTRP beginning with the schedule of events. Friday night will be the first performance of the pro rodeo, followed by slack on Saturday morning at 7:30. The second performance will be Saturday afternoon at 1:15 p.m. The Morrow County Rodeo will be held on Sunday at 1 p.m. with goat tying and steer dobbing as added events.

Don't forget to buy your tickets for a chance to win the 1994 Chevrolet pick-up raffled by the Morrow County Fair Board and OTRP Committee. The pickup was purchased from Wright Chevrolet in Fossil. Tickets may be purchased from any board committee member through August.

Les Schwab satisfies customers

Reprinted from Central Oregon Business Journal

Les Schwab's Tire Center's motto "The customer is king" seems to be paying big dividends, at least according to a recent customer satisfaction survey conducted by J.D. Power and Associates.

The survey indicates Les Schwab Tire Centers, Inc. has surpassed all other tire retailers nationwide in providing customer satisfaction.

According to an article in Tire Business, the study gave Les Schwab a score of 209 on its customer satisfaction scale. The average score on the survey was 96, and scores ranged from Schwab's 209 all the way down to a 27.

"We're pretty proud of the recognition," said Les Schwab President Phil Wick. "The tire industry has always thought of us as one of the best retailers in the area and to have that carry over nationwide is great."

Les Schwab opened its doors in Prineville 43 years ago and still maintains its corporate headquarters there.

The retail outlet has 251 stores at the present and company founder Les Schwab said an average of 10 new stores are opened every year.

Les Schwab Tire Centers now claim a 54 percent share of the tire market in Portland, which Schwab points out is more than all other tire outlets in the area combined.

Schwab said his company moves 2.5 million tires a year throughout the West.

Dr. Robert Rolen expands services

Dr. Robert Rolen

Dr. Robert Rolen, optometrist with offices in Heppner and Hermiston, is now certified to prescribe topical therapeutic medication for eyes and is licensed to treat glaucoma and other eye diseases.

Dr. Rolen completed instruction and a competency examination by the National Board of Examiners in Optometry. The license was issued the end of May.

Dr. Rolen says that Oregon is the 28th state to license optometrists to treat non-surgical eye health problems.

He said that now people do not have to travel out of the area to have foreign bodies removed from the eyes or be treated for conjunctivitis or iritis (inflammation of the iris of the eye). "It gives optometrists more responsibility and the privilege to write prescriptions," said Dr. Rolen.

"And it introduces optometry more completely into health care." Dr. Rolen earned a bachelor of science degree in biology from Gonzaga University and graduated from Pacific University College of Optometry as a doctor of optometry. He and his wife, Margaret, live in Hermiston with their four children.
