Ione youth enter 'The Human Race'

By Anne Morter

The Ione Youth Group plans to participate in The Human Race, a fund-raising 5 kilometer walk in Portland on August 7. As the youth group walks to raise money for their favorite non-profit service organization, Outreach Ministries in this case, they will do so in memory of Jason Halvorsen.

According to youth group leader, Jeri McElligott, all high school students and 94 graduates are welcome to participate. The youth group will pay registration fees for those students wishing to participate but they must contact McElligott by July 27. Registered walkers will leave Ione at 4 p.m. Saturday, August 6 and spend the night at the First Congregational Church. The walk is scheduled to begin at 8:45 a.m. Any adults who could serve as drivers would be helpful.

All ages are welcome to participate but those outside the parameters of the youth group must pay their own registrations and make their own arrangements.

Students wishing to register should contact McElligott at 422-7257 by July 27. Donations are welcome from people unable to participate. Checks should be made payable to The Human Race and sent to McElligott at Box 4, Ione, 97843. Donations must be received prior to departure since they must take them along.

Rodeo court takes 1st

The Oregon Trail Pro Rodeo Court put in a busy week, beginning with modeling lessons and the McCalls Trunk show sponsored by the Soroptimist International Club of Heppner. The girl modeled their wardrobe for the public.

On Saturday, July 9 Queen Staci O'Brien and her court were guests of the Wrangler Riding Club for their annual trail ride and barbecue.

Sunday morning, July 10 the court traveled to Elgin for the Elgin Stampede parade and rodeo, where the Court brought home another first place ribbon from a group of 15 other courts. At Elgin the Queen and her princesses were presented hand-painted horse hangers as a gift from Doris Doherty and Mary Ann Lowe, both of Pilot Rock.

On Saturday, July 16 the group is off again to the Fort Dalles parade and rodeo, and will be helping and participating in the horse show in Heppner on Sunday, July 17.

City begins street project

The city of Heppner is asking all residents who have homes adjacent to streets slated for improvement work to assist the construction crews by avoiding parking of vehicles on the street during weekday daytime hours immediately. Work is expected to occur simultaneously on all affected streets. As a result, parked vehicles could cause serious project delays. The project was to begin Aug 11 and is to be completed by August 20.

The list of affected streets is as follows: Shobe Street, Union Street, "A" Street, Church Street (between Main and Jones), Baltimore Street (between Main and dead end), Center Street (between Main and dead end), Quaid street, Elder street (south of the bridge), Stansburry and Thompson Street (hill only), Pioneer Drive, Gilmore street, Cannon street (all sections), South Court street, Cowins, Matlock, Green streets (between Matlock and Cannon), Hill, and South Main streets (south of the bridge and old swimming pool).

"The city appreciates the cooperation of affected residents. New and improved streets will be our reward," said city manager Gary Marks.
