Lynde Minster selected for United Nations tour

Lynde Minster

What better way to see America than up close and personal-on the bus.

Lynde Minster, the 16 year-old daughter of Rick and Pam Minster, Lone, got that chance to see the U.S. when she was selected to join the United Nations bus tour, sponsored by the Rebekah and Odd Fellow lodges.

From July 2 to July 21, Lynde traveled with 42 other kids from the western states who, in addition to learning a lot about their country, became very good friends.

The group took six days to travel back east, including a five-hour layover in Rapid City when the bus broke down. Ironically the bus also broke down in Rapid City on the way back, but that time, the layover was only around two to three hours.

In addition to the states of Washington, Idaho, Montana, South Dakota, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio and New York, Lynde saw the Mississippi River, Gettysburg, Philadelphia and the Liberty Bell, New York City, the Statue of Liberty, the Empire State Building, the United Nations, Washington, D.C., which was "extremely hot and humid", the U.S. Constitution, which, she says, "is a real eye-opener" and Niagra Falls, which is "very beautiful." "I saw a lot of country," said Lynde, who added that she "slept through Chicago." Lynde said she especially enjoyed the Broadway play "Miss Saigon" that the group was able to attend. "All of it was pretty outstanding," adds Lynde. Around 125 young people were in her group in New York.

The group stayed in hotels or motels and meals were provided along the way by Odd Fellow and Rebekah lodges, who either put on potlucks or provided funds for the teenagers to eat at restaurants. The only money required was for snacks and souvenirs. Now that Lynde is back home, she plans a presentation of her trip to the local Odd Fellow and Rebekah lodges. Lynde's sister, Crystal, was the recipient of the same tour three years ago.
