Letter to the Editor

Doesn't constitute better communication

To the Editor:
It is ironic that Jane Pope, one of the co-editors of the North Morrow County Times, is quoted in the August 19 edition as saying "Our goal is to bring the two cities together by having good communication."
We in Irrigon know that our town will never come together until our high school is restored. A lot of people in Boardman are in agreement with us in this matter. However, Jane Pope went out of her way to attend county board meetings to publicly oppose a high school for Irrigon. This doesn't look to me like a sincere desire on her part for better communication between our two cities.

Sincerely,
(s) Betty Gillett
Irrigon
