

Petersons win 'Spooktacular' costumes

Irene Plocharsky

Peterson's Jewelers, with their "Pajama Party" costume theme, won the Chamber of Commerce's most "Spooktacular" business award for the best costumes during the Heppner merchants' Moonlight Madness sale.

In individual awards, Gail Arbogast with her "Cookie Monster" took most "Spooktacular" costume; Marlene

Peterson with her "ready for beauty rest" outfit won the "Cat's Meow" award; and Irene Plocharsky from Murray Drug took the "McGruff's Choice" award with her rag doll costume.

DARE balloons and suckers were distributed to area youth as the Chamber dog and cat roamed the downtown area judging costumes.

Master Gardener conference held

Members of the Blue Mountain Master Gardeners organization elected officers, discussed future plans, and heard reports about the recent Western Regional Master Gardener Conference at their quarterly meeting held Oct. 27 at Country Flowers in Condon.

Newly elected officers are Gail Hughes, Heppner, president; Phil Emert, Pendleton, vice-President; and Karen Peterson, Condon, secretary-treasurer.

Youth education was one of the topics discussed for future projects in Heppner. It was noted that Master Gardeners Sharon Hamner and Peterson are presently operating a junior gardeners' club in Condon.

Other projects suggested included "gleaning" for the hungry, developing a "naturescape" patch that would display native plants, and a plant sale as a fundraiser.

Emert, Hughes and John Murray, Heppner, attended the three-day Master Gardener conference at the Airport Holiday Inn in Portland. They noted that about 500 gardeners from a dozen western states attended the series of educational workshops, displays, and tours.

They were especially impressed with the wide range of activities that are being tackled

Peterson's Jewelers

by master gardeners around the country.

Master Gardeners besides Hughes, Murray, Peterson, Hamner and Emert are Corinne Miles, Kay Proctor, Cathy Dowrey, and Cecil Rill, all of Heppner; Mary Ellen Coleman and Elaine Vandecar of Irrigon; and Susan Stahl of Hermiston.

The Master Gardener program in each state is administered by the appropriate extension service. The local program in Morrow County is supported by the Morrow County office of the Oregon State University Extension Service.

Ione Topic Club meets

Ione Topic Club members met at the social rooms of the St. Williams Catholic Church Oct. 26 with Rose Baker and Eunice McElligott as hostesses.

Baker showed a video of the Panama Canal which was opened to shipping in 1914. This is recognized as the 8th wonder of the modern world and is known as the greatest earth moving project ever attempted. It is controlled by a board of four U.S. members and five Republic of Panama taxpayers.

On Dec. 31, 1999, control will be turned over to Panama. It is unique in that there are two parallel waterways that allow ships through the locks and there may be four to seven needed, according to the size of the ship.

Library hours for November will be Monday and Wednesday afternoon and Friday from 1-2 p.m. instead of Wednesday evening. Story-telling will be the first Tuesday for four year-olds at 10:30 a.m. and the second Wednesday for three year-olds at the same time.

Dena Starr was welcomed as a new member.

Lots of fun at Parents club school carnival

"Princess Shanna Rietmann" (l) shows off cake she won at the Parents Club carnival while Lindsey Mitchell (center) and Blair Keithley also dressed up.

The Parents club held the carnival Oct. 27 at the Morrow County Fairgrounds. Proceeds from the carnival will go toward funding Heppner and Ione 6th grade Outdoor school.
