Pirates take revenge on Mustangs

The Riverside Pirates gained some revenge Saturday, Dec. 17, beating the visiting Mustangs 52-47.

The Pirates counted on Kardan Young to put up some numbers, and the 6-foot-3 senior scored 17 points and snagged 12 rebounds to lead Riverside to the win.

Aaron Keizur, the Pirates big 6-foot-9 post man was held to only 12 points, but it wasn't enough to stop the Pirates from avenging an earlier loss to the Mustangs at Heppner.

The first quarter was an offensive nightmare for the Mustangs, who could only manage three points in the first eight minutes.

Things got a little better in the second quarter, and the Mustangs only trailed Riverside 16-18 at the end of the half.

Heppner came out after the break with a big third quarter putting up 16 points and taking the lead 32-29, but it wasn't enough of a cushion when the Pirates knocked down a 23-point barrage to Heppner's only 15 in the fourth period to take the lead and the win.

Eric Schonbachler and Chris Sykes led the Mustang scoring, knocking down 12 apiece. Trent Hughes added nine, Chad Skroch seven, Dan Burnside four, Shawn Hisler two and Brent Wright one.

Heppner's Ethan Burnside surrounded by Cardinals

The lone Cardinals, down at one time by 15 points, staged a dramatic comeback behind the tough play of foreign exchange student Thierry Delbart, to beat the Heppner Mustangs 58-53 on the Mustangs own court Tuesday night Dec. 20.

Delbart knocked down 23 points and bagged 10 rebounds to bring the Cards back into the game. He was high scorer for both teams.

Heppner seemed to have the game under control leading after the first quarter 16 to 10, and at the half 31 to 21. But the Cardinals never gave up and combined a tough defense with good scoring from both Delbart and Jerad Ashbeck in the third period to bring lone within four points at the start of the fourth. Ashbeck finished with 17 points and seven rebounds.

The hot hand of Trent Hughes, who scored 25 against the Cards in their first meeting this year, returned to the Mustang guard, who racked up 18 points, including five three-pointers. Hughes also grabbed eight rebounds.

Heppner post man Chris Sykes had his best game of the season, putting down 16 points.

Other scorers for lone were:

Jake McElligott with five, Steve Allen seven, Kelly Morgan four, and Nathan Heideman two.

Rounding out scoring for the Mustangs were: Eric Schonbachler eight and Brent Wright 11. Wright also pulled down eight rebounds.

Heppner ran into a quick ball club with a tough defense Friday, Dec. 16, when the Mac-Hi Pioneers came to town to grab a 61-39 victory from the Mustangs.

With a tenacious defense and high pressure full-court press that caused 20 steals and seven turnovers the Pioneers refused to give the Mustangs any room, meanwhile relying on a 22-point offensive barrage from premier 6 foot 4 inch center Joe Parks to put Heppner in a hole the Mustangs could not climb out of.

Sophomore Eric Schonbachler and junior Chris Sykes provided most of the scoring for the Mustangs, putting up 10 points apiece, with Brent Wright adding six, Ethan Burnside three, Chad Skroch two and both Bill Schlaich and Trent Hughes contributing four points apiece.

Mac-Hi climbed on the Mustangs early leading 19-11 in the first quarter, then adding 15 more to Heppner's 8 points in the second quarter to lead 34 to 19 at the half. After three the Pioneers lead 50 to 30, before the final score of 61 to 39.

Alcohol And Heart Attack Prevention

Alcohol use and abuse is considered the major cause of some of the nation's most serious problems. The list of problems resulting from excess alcohol use includes family neglect and abuse, homicides, automobile accidents, and injuries. Surprising to many, however, researchers have found a beneficial effect from the intake of moderate amounts of alcohol.

The benefit discovered is a reduction in the risk of heart attacks. According to a recent issue of the Journal of American Medical Association, consumption of one ounce or less of alcohol a day may cut heart attack risk by as much as 40 percent. Alcohol seems to boost levels of a naturally occurring enzyme called tissue plasminogen activator. This enzyme breaks up blood clots in the body. A genetically prepared form of the enzyme is used by injection in hospital settings to dissolve clots located in the heart. Alcohol also tends to increase levels of HDL cholesterol in the body. HDL is the "good cholesterol" that seems to protect us from heart disease.

Many physicians are reluctant to recommend alcohol for fear of its addicting and destructive effects. And most physicians feel that complete abstinence from alcohol is best for persons with liver or pancreatic disease or congestive heart failure.
