Boardman citizens honored

The Boardman Woman of the Year, Glaya Baker, and the Boardman Educator of the Year, Frances Glenn, were honored at the annual Boardman Chamber of Commerce Banquet on December 2. The banquet, hosted by outgoing Boardman Chamber President Dr. Robert Boss, was held at the Dodge City restaurant.

Baker serves on the Boardman Planning Commission, the Boardman Tree Commission, is in her second term as the president of the Morrow County 4-H Leaders Council and is intensely involved with the 4-H Youth Development Program. She leads a foods and nutrition project, and is the co-leader of a horse project. She has served as camp nurse at the 4-H camp for youth of Morrow, Gilliam and Wheeler Counties.

Baker helps her husband, Ron, and sons, Kevin and Keith, with a hay farming operation in Boardman, and is a registered nurse. In addition to her work in the delivery room and maternity ward, Glaya teaches preparation for child birth classes in both Pendleton and Hermiston. In her "spare time" Baker has spearheaded the Morrow County 4-H Oregon Trail Walk and Ride for the past two years.

Over 140 people (general public as well as 4-H families) have had the opportunity to travel the Oregon Trail because of Baker's efforts.

Glenn was acknowledged for her effectiveness with students, her willingness to accept kids as they are, and her continual efforts to reach each one. Time after time, Glenn is someone who goes the extra measure to reach kids and touch their lives, Glenn and her husband Ed, have two grown children, Harold and Laurel, who are graduates of Riverside High School in Boardman.

Blair and Dalarie Philipi were nominated for all the work they have done for the girls' softball program and the Booster Club at Riverside High School. Jane Pope was nominated for her help co-chairing the Boardman 4th of July activities, the Riverside High School Booster Club, and her work on behalf of the "North Morrow Times" paper. Maria Richards was nominated for her service on behalf of the Little League, the District All-Star Tournament in Boardman, fund-raisers for 4-H project clubs, Riverside High School Senior Night, and Boardman Cinco De Mayo.

Ray Michael, chair of the awards committee, concluded the awards by saying that "all the nominees are winners, and the Boardman Community is fortunate to have them as residents." Michael noted that the nominees were "almost" an all female slate and encouraged the men of the community to get to work in '95.

OSU names extension director

Lyla Hougum assumed the post of interim dean of extended education and director of the Oregon State University Extension Service on Jan. 1.

The move is part of a plan for OSU to strengthen its ties to the people of Oregon, according to Roy G. Arnold, university provost and executive vice president.

Hougum's appointment is for 18 months, Arnold said. He anticipates a nationwide search for a permanent dean and director to begin in late 1995.

As interim dean and director, Hougum will have administrative responsibility for the OSU Extension Service and begin working with faculty, academic deans and others to implement the Extended Education model at OSU. Every academic unit of the university will be engaged in Extended Education when the plan is fully implemented. Extended Education incorporates traditional continuing education programs, but is much broader.

Hougum comes to her new position from her role as associate director for counties with the OSU Extension Service, a position she has held since 1990. She joined the OSU faculty in 1985 as an Extension 4-H youth development specialist.

She began her Extension career as an Extension agent in Ravalli County in her native state of Montana. She earned her undergraduate degree from Montana State University and her advanced degrees in speech communication from the University of Oregon.

Historical Society plans annual trip

By Delpha Jones

The Morrow County Historical Society board met at the home of Jim and Barbara Bloodsworth in December for their Christmas party and business meeting. Gifts were exchanged and a delicious dinner was enjoyed.

Officers elected were: Delpha Jones, president; Harold Peck, vice president; Ruth McCabe, secretary, treasurer.

The group is busy with plans for the annual spring tour which will take the group to Salt Lake City, Utah May 4-7.

The group will have a couple of overnight stays en route and on the return trip. One will be at the Windoven, which is west of Salt Lake at the Utah-Nevada border. There the group will visit an Indian village. The group will spend one night in Temple Square touring the Tabernacle visitors center, shops and other places of interest. Plans are being made to visit Peppermint Place, a candy factory. These plans are only a part of the trip and subject to change. Anyone interested in going on the trip should call Ruth McCabe or Delpha Jones.

Medical office class offered

A three-week teleconference series on medical office procedures is being broadcast over Oregon ED-Net to nine locations in Northeast Oregon, including Pioneer Memorial Hospital in Heppner.

The class will meet from 9 a.m. to noon, February 4, 11 and 18. The series will cover confidentiality and ethics, patient interaction, correspondence, scheduling, bill collection, maintaining records, co-worker interaction and time management techniques.

The class will be taught by Melinda Platt, MTE, of Pendleton. Platt has endorsements in general business, office systems and accounting. She teaches evening classes in accounting, word processing and typing for Blue Mountain Community College and is in her fourth year teaching at the Alternative Education Program for the Umatilla-Morrow County ESD.

The teleconference will also be offered at the following sites: St. Elizabeth Hospital in Baker City; the OSU Extension Office in Condon; Wallowa Memorial Hospital in Enterprise; Good Shepherd Community Hospital in Hermiston; Blue Mountain Hospital in John Day; Grande Ronde Hospital in La Grande; Holy Rosary Medical Center in Ontario; and St. Anthony Hospital in Pendleton.

Cost of the Teleconference is $40. Pre-registration is required and must be received by January 13. For more information, contact Northeast Oregon AHEC at 962-3801.
