Museum to host photograph exhibit

Martin Luther King, Jr. and the civil rights movement of the 1950s and 60s is the subject of a photographic exhibit which will go on display from February 1-28 at the Morrow County Museum. Consisting of 65 black and white photographs, facsimiles of landmark documents, quotations from the speeches and writings of Dr. King, and brief narrative texts, the exhibit covers the civil rights movement from King's emergence as a regional leader in 1955 to his death as an international figure in 1968. The exhibit is sponsored by the Morrow County Museum, and is made possible by the Oregon Council for the Humanities, an affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. Organized in 20 panels, the exhibit used profoundly evocative and sometimes horrifying images to tell the story of the black struggle for justice and equality. It includes Charles Moore's unforgettable photographs of the fire hoses and police dogs of Birmingham, Bob Fitch's haunting view of the nighttime rally where the cry of "Black Power" was raised for the first time, and Flip Schulke's famous image of King, with his hand raised toward the American flag announcing, "I have a dream!" The exhibit conveys not only the major events of the civil rights movement, but also the historical context, extending back to the Declaration of Independence. "Thanks to the skill and perceptiveness of individual photographers, it illustrates the Gandhian philosophy of nonviolent resistance and the deeply religious fervor of the civil rights movement in the early 60s" said Marsha Sweek. "Martin Luther King, Jr. and

Defense, ball control beats Falcons

Luke Swanson gets tangled up with Wheeler player

By Tonya Heideman
The Cardinals set the pace as they showed good ball control and played solid defense, Beating the Wheeler Falcons, 76 to 52 last Sat. Jan 21. Aggressive rebounding was a key element in the Cardinals' game. The Cardinals kept the ball away from the Falcons' main shooter as much as possible and applied good defensive pressure everywhere else. "Everyone played fairly well and we are getting a better feel for our offensive game," remarked coach Del LaRue. Senior Jerad Ashbeck scored 18 points for the Cardinals while exchange student Thierry Delbart put in 17. lone: McElligott 1 0-0 3, Allen 3 0-4 2, Swanson 2 1-4 6, Orem 2 2-2 6, Bacon 4 0-0 8, Heideman 1 2-2 4, Delbart 8 1-2 17, Morgan 2 1-2 5, Ashbeck 9 0-0 18, Taylor 1 0-0 2. Total 33 7-14 76. League Standing 3-1.

Wheeler: Wilson 2 0-0 5, McNeil 1 0-0 3, Shaffer 9 10-14 28, Humphrey 2 0-0 4, Kirby 4 3-4 13. Total 18 13-18 52.

Poor shooting gets lone first league loss

By Tonya Heideman
The lone Cardinals put forth a good defensive team effort but a 27 percent shooting average delivered them a 58-70 first league loss to the Helix Grizzlies last Friday night Jan. 20. The Cardinals were 33 percent from the free throw line. "We out rebounded the Grizzlies and we rallied in the fourth quarter but they were to far in the lead to catch," said coach Del LaRue. The Cards just couldn't hit the broad side of a barn, he added. Thierry Delbart did the work for the Cards as he scored a game high 22 points. Jerad Ashbeck chipped in 12. lone: Allen 1 0-0 3, Swanson 3 0-0 7, Bacon 2 1-2 5, Heideman 2 3-7 7, Delbart 10 2-7 22, Morgan 1 0-0 2, Ashbeck 5 1-5 12, Orem 0 0-0 0. League standing 2-1.

Helix: Raymond 5 3-7 14, Stevens 5 2-3 12, Theis 3 0-0 6, Fine 5 3-5 13, Maney 8 9-12 25.

Garden tools topic of meeting

"What is your Favorite Garden Tool?" Was the subject for discussion at the Lone Garden Club meeting at the home of Helen Martin Jan. 11. New members welcomed into the club were Corinne Miles and Deena Starr. Slides showing the many flower shows sponsored by the club in past years were shown by Helen Martin. These had been taken by Helen Martin and Pat Pettyjohn. Plans for helping with the Oregon Federation of Garden Clubs meeting to be held in Pendleton in June were discussed. The local club will make 12 bags and will help with decorations for the banquet tables at one of the sessions. It was decided that there would not be a plant sale this year but a day would be set aside for others to come to local gardeners' homes and select plants they wanted. Date and final plans will be announced later.

HES/HMS site council meets

The Site Support Committee reported there were no special concerns from the staff or community at the HMS/HES Site Council meeting Jan. 17. Anyone who has a concern or suggestion regarding the school community should contact members Mark Miller, Steve Hill, Joy Krein or Dave Gunderson. Barb Orwick and Vicky Broden are collecting data for the school profile. This information will help with making decisions about the new school configuration next year. Teachers are holding level meetings to review education goals that will promote progress and assessment related to the Certificate of Initial Mastery benchmarks in the elementary and middle school levels. A workshop will be offered to substitute teachers to acquaint them with the discipline program. A meeting will be held on January 26 at 7 p.m. at the Heppner Junior High gym for parents to become informed on the 7-12 configuration. Students in fifth and sixth grade will also have a chance to ask questions and become informed. This will be another opportunity to get ideas from parents. Joy Krein recommended a transitional team of parents, teachers and students to help manage decisions about the move. The site council with the help of Molly Rill, member of the school board committee to help pass the bond levy, will organize "coffee klatches" as a way to share information. Voters will mail in their bond levy votes no later than March 28. The site council encourages people to sign the petition for a unified park and recreation service district. This can help schools by providing funds from a separate taxing entity, rather than through the school general fund. Those attending the meeting in addition to Broden, Orwick and Krein included Pam Dowdy, Dave Gunderson, Steve Hill, Bill Karwacki, Merilee McDowell, Mark Miller, Cara Osmen, Linda Shaw and Dan Van Liew. The next meeting will be February 7 at 7 p.m. The public is welcome to attend.

Lone student takes first in contest

Angie Drummond, a junior at Lone High School was among 47 poets who won recognition in Metro Washington Park Zoo's Valentine Poetry contest. Winning poems were selected from 2,706 entries from young writers in Oregon and southwestern Washington. The contest was open to pre-school through high school-age students. Angie took first place in the 11-12 grade category. Winners are invited to read their poems at an awards program at the zoo on Feb. 10. First, second and third place winners will receive engraved medallions; all winners will receive a certificate and a copy of the 1995 "Anthology of Winning Poems". Poets David St. John and Christopher Merrill will be special guests at the awards ceremony. St. John will be in Portland as part of a Northwest Regional Residency sponsored by The Academy of American Poets and Mountain Writers Series, with support from the Lannan Foundation. Christopher Merrill's appearance is sponsored by the Mountain Writers Series. Immediately following the awards ceremony a plaque and bench will be dedicated in memory of Penny Avila, a Lake Oswego poet. Avila received honors locally, nationally and internationally for her work. She was a staunch supporter of the zoo and was the originator of the Valentine Poetry contest. Funds for the plaque and bench were contributed by her family, friends and the Oregon Cultural Heritage Commission. Panel of judges for the contest included writers and teachers affiliated with Oregon State Poetry Association, Washington Poets Association, Oregon Writers Colony, Oregon Cultural Heritage Commission, Southwest Washington Writers, Willamette Literary Guild, Mt. Hood Poetry Society, Literupton, Portland Poetry Festival, Clark Poets, Clark College, Linn Benton Community College and Hudson's Bay High School. By Angie Drummond
