

Bank of EO announce scholarships winners

The winners of the 1995 Bank of Eastern Oregon Agriculture/Business Scholarship are John Qualls, Heppner, Bryan Escobedo, Arlington, and Kristie Greiner, Condon, bank president George Koffler has announced. The contest is open to graduating seniors from Heppner, Ione, Arlington and Condon high schools. This marks the second year the bank has presented the $500 scholarships.

Scholarship winners must plan to enroll in agriculture or business. Judging was based on scholarship, leadership and citizenship. The application also included an essay, "What is the major problem facing agriculture/the U.S. economy in the 1990s?" No applications were received from Ione High School seniors this year, as none of the graduates will be entering the business or agriculture fields, according to a spokesperson.

John Qualls

John Qualls, Heppner High School, has been active in sports, Future Farmers of America (FFA), student government, and National Honor Society. He took first place this year in a FFA farm business management contest, and has received a variety of other awards, including being selected three times for "Who's Who Among American High School Students" for science, scholarship and Oregon track, and academic excellence awards from Oregon State University and the University of Montana. Qualls also received CBC football honorable mention awards for the positions of center and linebacker. The son of Roscoe and Kay Qualls, Heppner, John plans to pursue a career in accounting in eastern Oregon.

Bryan Escobedo, Arlington High School, has participated in football, basketball, tennis and track, and has held various club, class and student body offices, including president of each organization.

Escobedo plans to attend the University of Portland and study organizational communications and computer science, and enter the field of public relations following graduation. He is the son of Juan and Jan Escobedo, Arlington.

Kristie Greiner, Condon High School, is a member of National Honor Society, has been secretary and president of her class, has participated in basketball and volleyball (co-captain last fall), and is active in FFA, having held the offices of secretary and president.

Greiner plans to attend Blue Mountain Community College for two years to study agriculture, and then finish a degree at Oregon State University or Eastern Oregon State College. After graduation, she hopes to obtain a position with the Natural Resources Conservation Service, where she has had summer and work study employment. She is the daughter of Jim and Sandra Greiner, Condon.

"The board of directors and management of the bank feel strongly that education is a vital element in today's society," Koffler said. "We feel good about helping our local young people getting started in two professional fields that are of great relevance in our area's economy."

Alzheimer's topic of Ed Net program

An estimated 76,000 Oregonians have Alzheimer's disease or a related disorder. Legal and financial planning is especially challenging for families dealing with Alzheimer's. Senior and Disabled Services received a federal grant to finance a two hour legal/financial information program for Alzheimer's families using the state's ED-NET satellite video system.

A program on Alzheimer's will be broadcast at Pioneer Memorial Hospital, and other ED-NET sites around Oregon, Tuesday, May 16, from 2-4 p.m. The program will incorporate an interactive question and answer period. Topics will include an introduction to advance health care directives and alternate financial arrangements.

Pomona grange holds meeting

By Delpha Jones

Wheatland Pomona Grange met at the Spray Grange Hall last Saturday, with master Mike Medlock in the chair. Jim Welker, Eastern Oregon State deputy, who also filled the chair of the assistant steward, was introduced.

Committee reports were given, including a legislative report concerning the state legislature, and information on the Endangered Species Act. Some members felt that the environment is causing some concern, especially for the cattlemen and those interested in the mountain lands.

A bus trip was suggested for the next Legislature with cattlemen, farmers and others interested in the work on that level. The trip will be discussed at a later time.

It was reported that at the present time, 23 workers are planting trees in the Spray area.

The youth chairman told of the forming of the Youth Grange in Spray, February 7. They are making articles for the goodie baskets which will be raffled off at State Grange to help with expenses. There are 17 active Youth Grange members at this time. Two members are state junior officers-Jay Price, chaplain, and Tyson Davis, lecturer.

Carl Martin of the Lexington Grange was elected as Steward of Wheatland Pomona, as the present steward is unable to attend due to illness.

The reports of the granges show that they are all busy. Spray Grange has a new roof, and has completed other remodeling. Willows Grange has had several dinners, and has an active GWA Club. Lexington took in three new members, and has held all their meetings. The resolution committee includes Bob Hammerick, Dot Halvorsen, Clarence Buchanan and Willard French.

Lunch was followed by a cake walk.

A report was heard concerning the portable Grange display. The committee showed how it will be made and what it will be like when finished. The display will be taken to fairs in the area and other places to advertise the Grange and all the things it is involved in.

Barton Clark was elected delegate, and Ned Clark, alternate, to the Grange Mutual Insurance meeting at the State Grange.

A letter was read concerning the Smithsonian Postal Museum. The Grange played an important part in the mail delivery, and the Grange's part in postal history will be portrayed. The National Grange has pledged $250,000, with each state giving $20,000 over the next three years. Bobbie Medlock is making whisk-broom dolls for each Grange in Wheatland to sell chances to help fund this project.

Grange Week was in April. At the Lexington Grange, participation included a history of the State Grange and a short history of the Lexington Grange.

Information on the Search and Rescue cadet program was presented by Craig Ward and Jim Walker. The Search and Rescue is controlled by the state, with the local sheriff's department locally responsible. Most units are manned by volunteers. Various types of job skills and training are needed for this work. Anything concerning the military is taken care of by the military. Dogs are trained for most kinds of local rescue, such as lost children and hunters, and other local projects. There are 1,713 miles in the areas these volunteers cover, and about 1,500 people involved. Much of the tracking is done near rivers. Several youth are training for this project and average 10-18 years old, but they have had some six year olds involved. When a project is not going well, the Search and Rescue team may call in the Warm Springs Indian Search and Rescue team.

The roll call was as follows: Willows, 2, Greenfield, 0, Lexington, 7, Spray 8.

Rains greet Rolling Hills runners

Matt Kenny finishes his course in the Rolling Hills Run held Saturday, April 29, in Heppner. Kenny is assisted by volunteer Jason Hanna. Organizer Glenn Anderson said that the 70 people who signed up for the fun run were greeted with pouring rain which started around five minutes before the race started.

Morrow County Parks will open May 13, 1995

Both parks (Anson Wright and Cutsforth) have full hook-ups for trailers, and tent sites for camping. The fishing ponds are handicapped accessible. There is also playground equipment for children.

Volunteer park hosts are on site at all times to greet and assist visitors.

Anson Wright pond will not be stocked with trout this year due to work being done at the park, but the area has other excellent fishing spots just a short drive from the park.
