

Exhibit on display at museum Scouts help with Flag ceremonies

"Fighters on the Farm Front," an exhibit of historical photos, posters and other materials celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Emergency Farm Labor Service opened on May 20 at the Morrow County Museum and will be on display until July 12.

The traveling exhibit was assembled by the Oregon State University Archives, which houses a collection of about 15,000 photographs of the women, school children and others who helped harvest the crops during World War II.

The harvest effort was authorized by Congress in 1943, a time when most men were fighting overseas. The Emergency Farm Labor Service, administered in Oregon by the OSU Extension Service, continued until 1947.

During that time, more than 900,000 placements were made in the Beaver State, including 134,000 placements of women and 271,000 placements of youth workers.

"The Emergency Farm Labor Service was the agricultural equivalent of Rosie the Riveter, utilizing non-traditional workers," points out Larry Landis, OSU assistant university archivist, who assembled the exhibit.

The Morrow County Museum is open 1-5 p.m. Saturday through Wednesday, and by special appointment. There is no admission charge.

The exhibit was made possible in part by a grant from the Oregon Council for the Humanities, an affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Chris Dilly, representing the Cub Scouts, participated in the annual Flag Day ceremony at the Heppner Elks Club Thursday, June 8. Chris carried the flags and placed them in their proper positions as officers told what each flag represented.

Troy Day retires from Kinzua

Doug Dubuque wishes Troy Day a happy retirement

Troy Day, 62, Heppner, retired May 31 after 37 years with Kinzua as a heavy duty mechanic. A retirement party was held for him on June 3.

Day was born in Kentucky and came to Fossil with his family when he was six years old. He served in the Army in Germany. He married his wife, Molly, in 1958, the same year he started work for Kinzua. They moved to Heppner in June of 1978.

The Days' children are Curt Day and his wife, Sandi, Heppner, and Lorri Branstetter and her husband, Brian, Pendleton. The Days have five grandchildren, Cody Ford-Day, Zane Ford-Day, and Chance, Camron and Cassidee Day.

Teachers-District reach agreement

By April Sykes

The Morrow County School Board and the Morrow County Education Association (MCEA) have agreed on a three-year teaching contract. Incoming school board chairman Scott Bauska and MCEA President Dave Fowler signed the contract at the regular meeting of the board on Monday, June 12, at Riverside High School in Boardman.

According to district superintendent Chuck Starr, the agreement for 1995-96 includes step increases and a 1.2 percent increase for the top step of the last two columns in the schedule. In each of the next two years, 1996-97 and 1997-98, the teachers will get step increases in addition to a 2.5 increase on the whole salary schedule.

The board and the classified employees have also reached an agreement, Starr said. However, no one representing the classified was present at the meeting to sign. The classified contract calls for a two percent increase for the top step of the salary schedule only for the 1995-96 year. The remainder of the salary schedule will be frozen for that year. The contract calls for a two percent increase for all classified employees in each of the two remaining years of the three-year contract.

4. Contact Marv Padberg or Les Madden for the meeting site.

Anyone knowing new addresses of alumni since the last reunion is asked to send the information to Sue Townsend-Wiegand, 11544 S.E. Lincoln Ct., Portland, OR 97216.

Restrictions placed on Hwy 206

The Oregon Department of Transportation (ODOT) is placing a temporary restriction of 25 tons gross vehicle weight (gvw) on Highway 206 between Ruggs and Condon, effective June 15.

Vehicles exceeding the 25 ton gvw that need to travel between Heppner and Condon will need to use Ore. 74, I-84, and Ore. 19.

Breakup occurring on the highway between Ruggs and Eight-mile Road has prompted the need for the temporary restriction, said an ODOT press release.

Maintenance crews hope to have the necessary deep base repairs completed by the end of August.

For more information, contact Heppner area manager Jim King, 676-5545, or the district office at Pendleton, 276-1241.
