

Correction for Flower show

The Flower Show department at the Morrow County Fair has a correction in the Premium Book on page 41. Entries will be received Tuesday, August 15 from 4-8 p.m. and Wednesday, August 16, from 8-10 a.m.

The artistic arrangements division offers a new class lot for dried plant materials, arranger's choice.

Amateur arrangers are especially invited to exhibit this year, said a department spokesperson. Classes can be found on page 45 of the Premium book.

Junior flower growers, ages 7-14 are also urged to bring exhibits. "We had too few exhibits last year, so we are hoping for a new burst now to show 'What Kids Can Do,'" said the spokesperson.

Willow Creek Park answers questions

A number of people have asked questions regarding the Willow Creek Park District. Anyone who has a question he would like answered, please send that question to Nancy Snider, Secretary, Willow Creek Park District, P.O. Box 263, Ione, OR 97843. The question and answer will be printed in the paper on a weekly basis.

The following question has been answered by Snider:

Question: How was the campsite at Willow Lake built and what is happening with it now?

A statement was made at a public meeting that the campsite at Willow Lake was built with Corps of Engineer funds of over $250,000, and that no one would really want to stay there.

The camp site was built with the tax levy for the park district, grant monies, and volunteer labor and equipment with an approximate cost to date of $160,000. Although the campsite is not yet complete, there have been a number of campers using the facility (revenues through July were at about $2500).

Park District meeting scheduled

Two others vital to rescue at lake

According to information received by the Gazette-Times following the August 2 story, "Young man nearly drowns in lake", two other individuals were instrumental in saving the life of Mike Hammons, who almost drowned in Willow Creek Lake July 28.

Hammons was pulled out of the lake by two friends, Matt Chetwood and Randy VanEtta. But, after he was pulled out, David McCurry and Corey Sweeney administered aid, helping keep Hammons alive until an ambulance arrived and assisting ambulance personnel. The pair said that while they didn't have to administer CPR, it was a real touch and go situation. Hammons' breathing was irregular, at one point his pupils did not dilate to the sun, he often gasped for air and several times his eyes slipped back into his head. McCurry said that several times he brought him back with a slap to the face.

McCurry and Sweeney, both classmates of Hammons, had been lifeguards together at the Heppner swimming pool years before. McCurry had also worked as a medic in the armed forces.

Pomona Grange holds meeting

By Delpha Jones

The Wheatland Pomona Grange met at Anson Wright Park on Sunday, July 30, for their regular meeting, with Master Mike Medlock in charge of the meeting.

The day started with a potluck dinner. Following the dinner, Bobbie Jo Medlock spoke about the Youth Grange and the work they did at state session.

The Youth Grange is the only one east of the Cascades and is sponsored by the Spray Grange. Drew Peice was introduced as a member of the youth group. The youth group includes children 5-13 years old. All youth are invited to take part in this group's activities.

The Master then gave a short report on the resolutions and activities of the state session.

The agriculture report told of the St. James Paper company which is raising 10,000 acres of balm trees. It takes seven years for this tree to reach maturity and to be ready to harvest.

A report was heard from the committee who made the Wheatland Grange display for fairs and other events advertising the Grange. It will be on display at the Wheeler County Fair next week. Those building the display were Aloha Medlock and Mike Medlock of Spray Grange, Eulenna Vaughn of Greenfield Grange and Cherilynn Smouse of Lexington Grange. Anyone wanting to have this display to use at their fair may contact Master Mike Medlock.

Zelma McDaniels, chaplain of the Lexington Grange gave the memorial for the departed brothers and sisters of the Grange. A poem was read and the names were given to a background of church music. Those remembered were: Roy Lindstrom, Hermann Blettel, Mabel Ring, Lloyd Morgan, Ida Coleman of Willows, Don Culber of Spray and Anita Boyer and Janice Cutsforth of Lexington Grange.

The roll call was as follows: Willows five, Spray five and Lexington 17. Attendance was low due to the Irrigon Watermelon Festival, harvest and haying. The remainder of the afternoon was spent visiting.
