

Jim Farley honored by OSU

James Farley, Heppner, was among those recently honored as Diamond Pioneers by the Oregon State University College of Agricultural Sciences in Corvallis. Farley was among the nearly 50 men and women who were saluted for their contributions to Oregon's agriculture, natural resources and OSU.

Farley, Morrow County's 1991 Citizen of the Year, is a native son who operated a car dealership in Heppner for 40 years while running a wheat ranch. He is still actively involved in ranch operations.

The OSU graduate founded Heppner's annual St. Patrick's Day celebration and was grand marshal of the parade in 1988. For the last five years, he helped host the Oregon Lamb Cook-off, held on St. Patrick's Day, in the showroom of Farley Motor Co.

He has been a member of the Elks Lodge for more than 50 years and is a past exalted ruler. He is also an active member of St. Patrick's Catholic Church. He counts service on the Morrow County Board of Equalization among his civic activities.

Other Eastern Oregon 1995 Diamond Pioneers are Earl Smith, Antelope; James Hill, Jr., Arch Cape, formerly of Pendleton; Ronald Davis and R.J. Phillipi, Arlington; Fred Phillips II, Baker City; William Hulse, Dufur; Charles Gavin, Enterprise; Ken Killingsworth, Fossil; Bill Rolfe and Orville Ruggles, Grass Valley; Robert Skinner, Jordan Valley; Randall Pope, Merrill; Shigeo Murakami and Ray Novotny, Ontario; and Dewey and Catherine Thomas, Wasco; and Fred Hill, Walla Walla, formerly of Helix.

The Diamond Pioneer Registry started when the college celebrated its 75th anniversary and honors those 75 years and older, according to Judy Modrell, program coordinator. This year's Diamond Pioneer class is one of the largest ever selected, she added.

Cities, county receive OLCC revenue

The Oregon Liquor Control Commission distributed $6.6 million from August revenue, according to the agency's monthly fiscal report. The city of Heppner received $903; Boardman, $1,322; Ione, $154; Lexington, $175; Irrigon, $548; and Morrow County, $1,685.

Of the $6.6 million, $3,381, 876 went to the state's general fund. The total distributed to cities and counties amounted to $1,811,719. The rest of the funds went to different services and advisory boards.

The distributed revenue comes from sales in liquor stores, taxes on malt beverages and wines, license fees and other income such as fines paid by licensees for liquor law violations.

Geoffroy Anderson earns USU degree

Geoffroy Anderson, Heppner, recently completed requirements for a master of science degree in animal science from Utah State University.

He is the son of Dwight and Darlene Anderson and is married to Kristine Kylen. They have one child, Kylan.

Anderson attended Box Elder High School and earned a bachelor of science degree in range science from USU in 1992.

He is employed by the U.S. Forest Service in Heppner.

Local students earn scholarships

More Oregon students will see a silver lining in the cloud of college debt this year due to a 23 percent increase in scholarship funding. The Oregon State Scholarship Commission recently announced that 1,228 students claimed a total of $2,243,300 in scholarships funded by federal programs, businesses and individual donors. This tops last year's total by more than $400,000.

Local students earning scholarships are Patty Anderson, $2,565 and Dani Hill $1,632, both Ford Scholars; Jenny Krein $1,500 Robert Byrd; Brent Wright and Anderson both $500 Mervin and Gena Leonard.

Valby Lutheran plans fundraiser

Valby Lutheran Church, under the auspices of Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL), will sponsor a table at the Artifactory Craft Fair to be held at the Morrow County Fairgrounds, Dec. 12.

Valby members are encourage to bring five food or craft items to the table. Money raised from the project will be used to purchase new hymnals entitled "With One Voice," a supplemental service and hymnal to the current green hymnal. Many hymns have been sung from the new hymnal at church services, said the Reverend Stan Hoobing.

Matching funds will be sought from AAL and Lutheran Brotherhood Blue Mountain Branch #8716 for the project.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF INTENT TO COMPLETE ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT FOR WILDLIFE DAMAGE MANAGEMENT IN THE JOHN DAY, OREGON ANIMAL DAMAGE CONTROL DISTRICT

BY UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
ANIMAL AND PLANT HEALTH INSPECTION SERVICE
ANIMAL DAMAGE CONTROL

USDA, Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, Animal Damage Control (ADC) is in the initial stages of evaluating its wildlife damage management activities in the John Day District. Livestock producers and the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife (ODFW) have requested USDA Animal and Plant Inspection Service, Animal Damage Control (ADC) to conduct wildlife damage management to protect livestock, various wildlife species, and to protect human health and safety from dangerous bears and cougar.

The results of this evaluation will be written in an Environmental Assessment (EA). The EA is a public document that will reveal how the proposed program to protect livestock and wildlife could affect the environment in north-east and southeast Oregon. The EA will help ADC to decide the best way to manage their responsibilities. The analysis will focus on how ADC programs will affect resident wildlife and other identified public concerns.

The public is invited to provide information and comments towards the completion of the EA. Anyone interested in obtaining detailed information relative to this analysis can contact the State Director, APHIS-ADC, 2600 SE 98th Ave. Suite 110, Portland, Oregon 97266. (503)-231-6184.
