Pirates take duel with Mustangs

By Ben Ewing

The Riverside Pirates rode pitcher Chris Huxoll's back to a 4-1 win over the Heppner Mustangs, April 18. Huxoll collected 10 strikeouts, while surrendering only four walks on his way to a one-hitter.

Heppner pitcher Donnie Pointer was great in the middle, but shaky at the beginning and end of the game. After walking the bases loaded in the first inning, he finished the game giving up only five hits, while collecting six strikeouts.

Brian Koffler's shot off the center field wall in the bottom of the third inning broke up Huxoll's no-hitter. Ryan Nevela knocked in Shane Matheny from third base for the Mustang's lone run in the bottom of the fourth inning, but that was the end of Heppner's offense for the day.

The Pirates took a 2-1 lead at the top of the fourth inning and never looked back. Riverside loaded up the bases again in the seventh inning, but could only muster two runs.

Shortstop Eric Schonbacher, catcher Nevela and right fielder Colin Anderson had good days in the field, helping Pointer's cause.

The Mustangs continue league play Saturday, April 27, with a double-header in Stanfield, and next week with a game against Pilot Rock in Pilot Rock on Tuesday, April 30. A double-header will be played in Heppner against Umatilla on Saturday, May 4.

Umatilla Vikings beat Mustangs

By Ben Ewing

The Umatilla Vikings got a strong outing from Kyle Fredrickson on the hill to top the Heppner Mustangs, 5-2, in league competition, April 16. Fredrickson threw a one-hitter and compiled nine strikeouts by the end of the game.

The Mustangs' hit came from the bat of Donnie Pointer in the top of the second inning. An RBI by Josh Coiner in the first inning and an error accounted for the Mustangs' scoring on the day.

Pitcher Eric Schonbacher had a fine day himself, striking out nine and giving up only three hits through seven innings of work. The Heppner defense was suspect, amassing five errors for the game, four in the third inning.

The Mustangs are 0-3 in league play after losing both games of a double-header against Pilot Rock on April 13.

Two local businesses join forces

Two Heppner businesses, Twice upon a time... and Talk-N-Tops, have combined services to bring personalized clothing to the area. With the Xerox laser copier at Twice upon a time..., Doris and Dan Brosnan, owners, can create transfers of photographs, graphic design and logos. "If it fits on the copy machine screen, it can probably be copied," said Doris Brosnan. The Hollomons, owners of Talk-N-Tops, have the transfer press.

"The most common price is $11.75 for a standard finished t-shirt, but children's shirts will cost less and custom-size and heavier weight shirts will be more," said Brosnan. "Sweat-shirts and hats are also available. Prices on large orders will be discounted and this local enterprise will be competitive with out-of-town and mail-order businesses."

In conjunction with this new service, Twice upon a time... also provides word processing and graphic services so a customer may design a one-of-a-kind picture to put on a piece of clothing. And the Hollomons will press transfers onto a person's favorite piece of clothing instead of one of their products for a $2 fee.

The Hollomons and Brosnans are excited about their new venture. They see an inexpensive opportunity for individuals, organizations and businesses "to create special clothing for fun, for pride, and for advertising. The possibilities are almost limitless. The timing of this new business opening is perfect for Mother's Day. What mother would not like to have a photo of her child or children on a t-shirt or sweatshirt?" said Brosnan.

Ione UCC celebrates centennial

IONE UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST
1896 IONE, OREGON 1996

Drawing by Cheryl Smouse

Ione United Church of Christ (IUCC) celebrated its 100th anniversary on Sunday, April 21, with festive worship followed by a dinner and celebratory program. One-hundred, sixty people attended the program.

Worship was led by former IUCC ministers. The Reverend Bill Graham of Dayton, Washington, who served the Ione church from 1975-78, preached on "Doughnuts, Holes and Destiny." Other former IUCC ministers participating in worship were the Reverends Rod MacKenzie, Bill Arthur, Caroline Zaworski, David Zaworski, Matthew Nelson and Isa Brown.

Special music was provided by Darrell James, the church's former organist and choir director, and his wife, Anna Lee, now of Turner, Oregon. Frances and Cheryl Smouse played a duet, and the adult choir, under the direction of Helen Heideman, sang "Song of Fellowship."

Lucile Rietmann was honored as having had the longest association with the church, as she was baptized as a baby in the Ione Congregational Church about 86 years ago.

The sanctuary was decorated with flowers arranged by Ralph Martin of Durham, and with new banners by Yvonne Morter and Helen Heideman.

The afternoon program was held in the Ione Legion Hall, which was decorated with flowers and IUCC auction quilts hung on the wall. After the meal catered by the Ione Legion Auxiliary and served by Ione Middle School students,
