Willow Creek Water Park nears completion

Construction on the Willow Creek Water Park is nearing completion and a tentative finishing day has been scheduled for Tuesday, July 22.

A grand opening has been scheduled for Saturday, August 9. Area volunteers put up a fence and laid down sod. The

Museum to sponsor folk music program

Linda Danielson and Dianne Dugaw

"Where'd You Come From, Where'd You Go?": Folk Songs and Fiddle Tunes in America," a lively musical presentation by Dianne Dugaw and Linda Danielson, will be presented Sunday, July 20, at 2 p.m. at the Morrow County Museum in Heppner. The public is invited to attend and admission is free.

The program is sponsored by the Morrow County Museum and is made possible by the Oregon Council for the Humanities, an affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. "Combining musical performance with stories and commentary, "Where'd You Come From, Where'd You Go?" explores the rich mosaic of musical folk culture produced in rural America," said museum director Marsha Sweek. Performed by champion fiddler Linda Danielson and singer/guitarist Dianne Dugaw, the program features a kaleidoscope of traditional tunes: old American and British ballads, cowboy songs, blues, folk hymns and spirituals.

For further information about the program, contact the museum at 676-5524, from 1-5 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday.

mushroom fountain and water slide have been installed and water was put in the pool for the first time Tuesday.

Heppner Class of 1967 plans reunion

The Heppner High School class of 1967 has planned their 30 year reunion for Saturday, July 26.

Saturday's events include golfing at 8 a.m.; a get-together at 1 p.m. at the Morrow County Fairgrounds; and a social and no-host dinner at the Heppner Elks Club beginning at 6 p.m.

Friends, former teachers and parents are also invited to attend.

Brothers win

Brothers Chris and Nick Anthony of Heppner claimed first place honors in their divisions in the Top Gun basketball shooting contest. Both boys were presented plaques by Heppner High School (HHS) varsity coach Bob Ployhar.

Chris, who will be a senior at HHS this fall, won the junior/senior division, and Nick, who will be a freshman, won the freshman/sophomore division.

"These two fellows seemed to have spent some time on their own shooting the ball and that was the difference," commented Ployhar. "That's what we're hoping to accomplish with these contests."

The contest lasted through June and was sponsored by the Heppner Booster Club. Another contest is planned for November.

Construction underway at Heppner subdivision

Lakeview Heights

Two houses are scheduled to be built at the new housing subdivision located overlooking Willow Creek Dam, according to developer E.J. Leason of U.S. Tank and Construction Co., Inc., Redmond.

Leason said that one house will be a model home and the other has been purchased by a local resident.

Leason said that final staking for curbs was to be completed Monday with curbs tentatively in place by the end of the week.

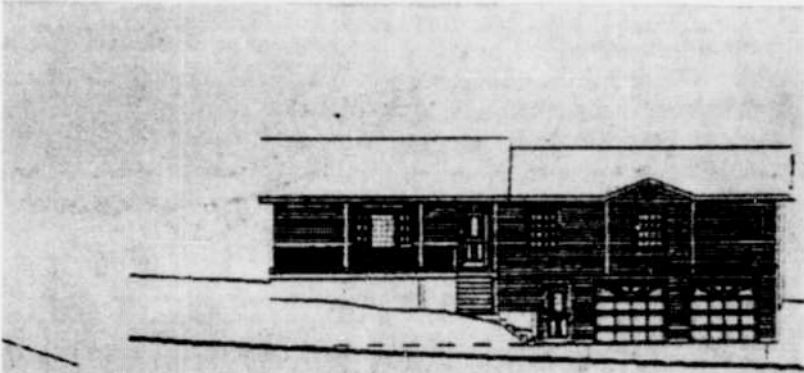

After the curbs are in place, the sub-base can be laid and asphalt could be poured next week or the following week, he said.

Leason said that the homes are modular units by Stratford Homes. He said that after the home plans have been approved by the city, foundations will be poured.

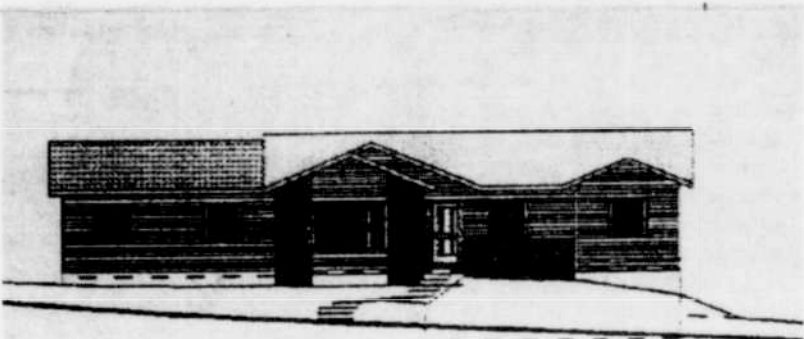

Leason estimated that it takes around five weeks from the time a home is ordered to its arrival. He said that the average cost of a home is around $45 a square foot.

Elks praised at national convention

No truth to the rumor that the Windy City got its nickname during an Elks convention, but the more than 10,000 members who gathered there from July 5-10 for the 133rd national convention of the BPO Elks of the USA did have plenty to "gust" about.

Last year, the total value of the Elks' philanthropic works was $133 million, said an Elks' news release. These works include youth athletic and drug education programs, aid for people with disabilities, college scholarships, cancer and transplantation research and veterans service.

A highlight of the convention was Wednesday's session when Gen. Barry R. McCaffrey, director of the White House Office of National Drug Control Policy, addressed the conventioners, whose numbers included a delegation from Heppner Elks Lodge No. 0358.

Also speaking that day were the overall winners of the Elks National "Hoop Shoot" Free Throw Contest- Leon Lopez, 9, of Santa Fe, N.M., and Amber Langston, 12, of Tampa, Fla. More than three million kids from eight to 13 participated in this year's program. They were followed by Stephanie Lynn Murg, 18, of Grosse Pointe, Mich., and Martin D. Wong, 18, of Fremont, Calif., the top two winners in the Elks National Foundation's "Most Valuable Student" scholarship contest. Each will receive a four-year, $20,000 scholarship. The foundation annually awards $2.1 million in college scholarships based on academics, leadership and need.

Throughout the convention, the 2,200 local lodges were hailed for their support of the order's national programs, as well as their own local programs. "Our goal this year is to continue strengthening America," declared Carlton O'Malley of Scranton, Penn., who was elected national leader of the Elks during the convention. "and the members of our local lodges, led by their Exalted Rulers, will be our bricks and our mortar."

The Exalted Ruler of the Heppner Elks Lodge is Roger Mortimore.

The BPO Elks of the USA has its headquarters in Chicago.
