County helps buy CSEP vehicles

Morrow County has assisted with the purchase of two vehicles to haul the recently delivered decontamination trailers. The trailers were provided to local emergency responders in Boardman and Heppner through the Chemical Stockpile Emergency Preparedness Program (CSEPP). The trucks will be used to move the trailers to the point of greatest need if there is an accidental release of chemical warfare agents stored at the Umatilla Chemical Depot. Umatilla County has taken similar steps to purchase trucks for the Umatilla and Hermiston Fire Departments. The Morrow County Court has authorized purchase of an International 4900 Series truck from Brattain International Trucks of Portland for the Heppner Volunteer Fire District. The truck will be specially configured to meet all the requirements of an emergency service vehicle. In related action, the county will provide $50,000 through an intergovernmental agreement to the Boardman Fire District for their purchase of a similar type vehicle. It is estimated that the vehicles will be delivered in May or June of 1999. In addition to the vehicles, both fire departments will receive $2,500 to provide security fencing and utility outlets for the trucks and decontamination trailers. When completed, this will allow the departments to keep the trucks and trailers in a ready state in all weather conditions. "This is a very important event," said Dan Knoll, Morrow County Emergency Management public information officer. "It is another example of the CSEP Program's continued commitment to provide local emergency response personnel with the equipment they need to protect themselves and our citizens if there is ever an accident at the Umatilla Chemical Depot." Casey Beard, the Morrow County Emergency Management director said Russ Salter and his staff at FEMA gave support in providing this "critical capability".
