High tea to benefit symphony

Local music lovers will soon get an opportunity to not only enjoy an afternoon of unusual chamber ensembles, but they will also get a chance to tempt their taste buds on an unusual array of English and American tea. As if this were not enough, a delicious and delicate menu of homemade cookies, along with an intricate assortment of petite sandwiches will tempt the pallet.

All of this is being offered at the St. Patrick's Senior Center, on Sunday, Sept. 17, between the hours of 2-4 p.m. Funds raised will go to help promote the Willow Creek Symphony, which is under the direction of conductor Lee Frieze of Pendleton.

"Lovers of violin music will enjoy the artistry of Frieze who will also be featured as one of the guest artists that afternoon," said a spokesperson.

The 100 high tea settings will be served by members of the local symphony with intermittent moments of congenial conversation and moments of musical talents, including outstanding young performers of local residency.

This musical event is sponsored by Valby Lutheran Church, along with insurance carrier Aid Association for Lutherans. The insurance carrier has pledged to double any proceeds from the occasion up to $800 dollars.

Tickets for the high tea are now on sale at Gardner's Men's Wear in Heppner and the Bank of Eastern Oregon in Ione. For additional information or for high tea ticket sales, contact Shirley Palmer at 676-9730.

There will be a limit of 100 settings for the occasion. Friends of the symphony from Boardman and Irrigon are especially invited to attend the occasion, said the spokesperson.

Colt volleyball startup planned

Colt volleyball for children in third through sixth grades is coming to South Morrow County.

The program will go from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15 with games on Sundays and practices on Fridays.
