Snow driving tips

With snow forecast at pass levels this weekend, Oregon Department of Transportation officials are reminding travelers to prepare their vehicles for winter driving conditions and to drive with extra caution. Snow is forecast in most mountain areas at the 3,500 to 5,000 foot levels throughout the state.

• Inspect windshield wipers and tires. Is your windshield washer tank filled with winterized fluid?

• If you took tire chains out of the vehicle during the summer, put them back. Or purchase a set now so you'll have them for the entire season-they can be required anytime conditions warrant.

• Make sure anti-freeze levels are adequate and that radiator hoses are in good shape.

• Be sure the car's heater and defroster are working properly.

PMNH resident of the month

Leora Koel

Leora Koel, Pioneer Memorial Nursing Home's November Resident of the Month, was born Leora Taylor on June 30, 1923, at the Artesia Hospital in Artesia, CA.

Leora was the middle child of six. She had three older brothers, John, Don and Charles, and two younger sisters, Ruth and Loretta. Her only living sibling, Loretta Sanford, and her husband, Bob, were in town from California to visit her October 4.

On Nov. 3, 1940, Leora married Harry Koel in Yuma, AZ. They raised their four children in Lakewood CA. Their children are Deanna Lapre, Condon, Linda Luck, Greenlake, WI., Bill Koel, Reno, NV., and Don Koel, Bellflower, CA. She has seven grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Leora was a bookkeeper. She started out working for her brother who owned several grocery stores and she ran the post office inside the store. When he decided to close the post office, his bookkeeper taught her bookkeeping and she worked there for many years. Later she worked for a company that made marble bathroom sinks and the cabinets. She always balanced to the penny and enjoyed the work very much.

Leora always enjoyed handwork and crafts. She said she had to keep her hands busy. She crocheted Afghans, tablecloths, etc. for all of her relatives. She sewed her daughters' clothes and sewed for others as well, decorated cakes, and learned to oil paint in the 70s. She earned many ribbons for her oil paintings at the local Art Association. All her relatives and friends have one or more of her paintings hanging on their walls.

"Everything Leora made was made to perfection; she was taught by her mother that the inside should look as good as the outside," said a family member.

Leora loved to play games. She and her husband belonged to a Pinochle card club for 30 years where six couples met once a month for a potluck and cards. She also played Bunco with her lady friends once a month for many years.

Leora enjoyed traveling and fishing with her husband in their motorhome. When they were both retired they would go on bus trips with the seniors. They enjoyed going to Las Vegas and Laughlin, NV. on the bus trips.

Leora's husband passed away in 1991. In 1998 she moved to Condon with her daughter and her husband. She now lives at the Pioneer Memorial Nursing Home.
