The following seven students of St. Patrick's Parish received the Holy Eucharist for the first time on Sunday, April 29: Joe Armato, Taighler Dougherty, Justin Gutierrez, Christopher Hickerson, Ian Murray, Megan Orr and Teri Straley.

Mike Armato had prepared the students for this occasion. The Mass was celebrated by Fr. Gerry Condon, servers were Kelly Straley, Sean Murray and Maggie Armato and music was provided by Lori Straley, Ann Murray and Debbie Wryn. Following the Mass, St. Patrick's Altar Society had a reception in the Parish Hall for the students, their families, and friends.

Students at Lone Elementary and Junior High School spent the month of April busily reading each day.

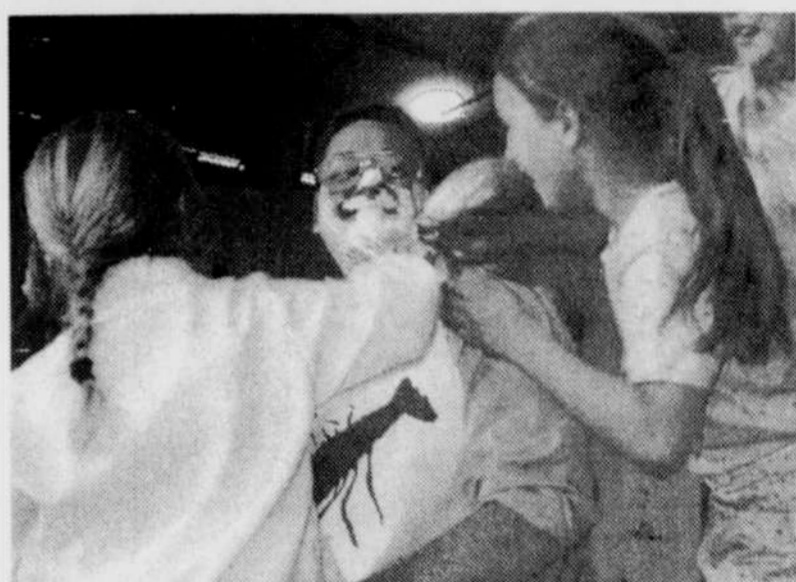

Every time they read a book they added a link to a paper chain hoping to read enough books to make the chain reach down the block from the grade school to the office of Principal Mike Stuart.

Stuart promised to shave off his mustache, which had been a cherished part of his face for 33 years, if the chain reached far enough. Dean Robinson, junior high language arts teacher, also took up the challenge and offered to shave his beard of 14 years.

When the final day came students were delighted to find their chain reached to the principal's office and back to the grade school again. Librarian Teri Palmateer announced that the 90 students had read 2,421 books during the month.

At the assembly which followed, the student from each grade who had read the most books got to apply the shaving cream to the men's faces. The winners were: kindergarten, Julianne Carlson; first grade, MaKenna Ramos and Mary Rietmann; second grade, Beth Morter; third grade, Stefanie Archer; fourth grade, Kara Clay; fifth grade, Shannon Clay; sixth grade, Stephanie Holland; seventh grade Kyle Palmateer; eighth grade, Barbara Holland.

After a hilarious assembly during which the whiskers and mustache were removed by the students everyone was treated to root beer floats. Everyone agreed that the men were very good sports and the teaching staff commented that it was one of the best educational activities of the school year.
