Ione Site Council holds April meeting

By Debbie Radie

At last Wednesday's Ione Site Council meeting, members learned that the school enrollment is up to 160 students.

An update on the bond reported that the FEMA report was due last week and bids will go out by June.

The "Reading Across America" program began Monday. The students who meet their goals will have the opportunity to shave teacher Dean Robinson's and Principal Mike Stuart's facial hair.

Other announcements included the April 18 skills contest at BMCC, the band festival on May 8 and the sixth grade trip to Tupper Camp during the week of May 13.

The Morrow County Public Works Department had offered a contest to the students to create brochures to be used in county parks. The department chose Amellia Peck's brochure as the winner.

Other student and school recognition included Shannon Clay as a participant in the Oregon State Geography Bee, Mike Radie, Tracy Griffith and Diana McElligott as National Honor Role achievers and Del LaRue receiving $500 at the Blazer game.

Currently Ione is tied for second in the Oregonian Cup standings.

Resources, including digital video equipment and video editing software, have been ordered using Carl Perkins funds. These materials will be used for video presentations and productions.

Some students took state tests last week via computers. It was reported that things ran smoothly with only a few minor problems. Since it takes longer to enter new students into the computer system, the remaining students will finish their testing this week.
