Community booths can "Catch the Centennial Spirit"

It's never too soon for planning, whether it's for individual exhibits, preparing a pioneer-dressed scarecrow or designing a showcase for an organization in a community booth at the 2002 Morrow County Fair, Aug. 14-18.

Community organizations and groups need to be aware that first-come reservations are necessary to reserve one of the 12 community booths at the fair. Once those ready-made booths are taken, if space permits, additional booths may be staged in different areas.

"Volunteers are the heart of community organizations, from churches to youth organizations. Community booths showcase the role of these organizations that are an integral part of a county or community culture," said a fair spokesperson. The five different categories for booths include church organizations, community service and civic organizations, agriculture organizations, hobby and cultural organizations and youth organizations. Each division is judge separately with an overall "best of show" champion.

In planning for a fair booth, designers need to be aware of guidelines. A booth display may employ the fair theme, but does not need to use it or focus on it. Judging scores are based on how effectively a booth tells the purpose of an organization. Scoring also considers a center of interest, simplicity, balance and use of color in booth designs.

This year, reservations require a $10 refundable deposit and reservations must be made by Thursday, Aug. 1. Colored paper is provided at no charge. Booths must be in place by Monday, Aug. 12 at 8 p.m.

Service Club will meet

The Willow Valley Service Club will hold a meeting Thursday, July 11, from 12-1 p.m. at John's Other Place, upstairs, for a no-host lunch. This will be the only meeting in July.

The agenda includes timely business items and a presentation by Garden Club President, Chuck Bailey, on hints for floral displays for Morrow County Fair entries. Guests are welcome at this meeting.

WVSC service projects in June included the awarding of two $600 scholarships to graduating high school seniors; purchase (assisted by Lott's Electric) of a new refrigerator for the Morrow County Fairground's kitchen; and a successful free-to-the-public (in co-operation with the Morrow County Unified Recreation District) concert in the park in Lexington.

Student receives service award

Adam McCabe, son of Ashley and Kathy McCabe of Ione, has been selected by Dollars for Scholars as a recipient of a 2002 Community Volunteer Service Award. McCabe was chosen from over 6,600 students from 45 states to receive a $750 scholarship for his postsecondary education.

Nominees for the Community Volunteer Service Awards are evaluated on their record of volunteerism and community service, making the award unique among nationally distributed scholarships. The scholarship, which is also awarded for academic achievements, is sponsored each year by a number of companies, foundations and individuals. Adam was the recipient of this award sponsored by the Best Buy Company, Inc.

Also worthy of notice were applicants, Rhonda Wilhelm, Cynthia Heagy, Amellia Peck, Kristina Powell, and Aaron Tworek. These applicants were eligible because of their participation in community volunteerism and because they are outstanding students.

Ione wins third consecutive title

History repeated itself in the 2A and 1A ranks in the Oregonian Cup final standings for 2001-2002 released Tuesday, June 11. Santiam Christian (2A) and Ione (1A) captured their third consecutive titles. Sheldon (4A) and Wilsonville (3A) are first-time honorees.

The Cardinals laid claim to their third consecutive 1A Oregonian Cup title in familiar fashion - by hitting the books. Four Cardinal teams took home first place in the Academic All-State program: football, boys basketball, girls tennis and boys tennis. The girls' basketball team finished tied for second. Ione sealed its third straight award with second place finishes by the girls and boys track and field teams at the 1A state meet. The Cardinals had no ejections this year.

Schools earn points for the Oregonian Cup based on their finish in all OSAA-U.S. Bank State Championships and for Top 10 placement in the OSAA-Dairy Farmers of Oregon Academic All-State program. The Oregonian Cup weighs activities, athletics and academics equally. A sportsmanship component, whereby schools are awarded points each season for having no ejections, is included as well.

St. Patrick's recognizes parishioners

St. Patrick's Parish recognized two parishioners last week for their service to the parish. Their names will be engraved on the Wall of Honor. They were nominated by the members of the parish and selected by the Parish Council.

Gayle Arbogast was honored because of her care of the flower borders around the church and Parish Hall, for taking care of the purificators and corporals that are used at Mass, for being an active member of the Altar Society, and for serving her fourth term on the Parish Council. She has helped with events such as the annual St. Patrick's dinner, coffee hours, and taking care of the candles and other supplies for the church. She is a lector and a Eucharistic Minister. She leads the Rosary before Mass each week, is a substitute religious education teacher, and was a cast member of the drama: "Patrick - Apostle of Ireland".

Ken Turner has taken care of the shrubs around the church and Parish Hall for several years, has been president of the Holy Name Society and organizes the St. Valentine's breakfast each year. He organized and worked on the installation of the sprinkler system at the church and hall, has taken part in the annual St. Patrick's parade on behalf of the parish for several years, was a member of the cast of "Patrick - Apostle of Ireland". Turner has assisted with the annual Christmas program for many years, and is available to assist with any project when called on.

St. Patrick's Parish is grateful to these members for their dedicated service, said Fr. Condon.

Heppner student receives award

Corey Miller of Heppner was named a winner of the Agricultural Cooperative Council of Oregon Paul Carpenter Award in a recent ceremony at Eastern Oregon University in La Grande. He is a student in the Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics.

Miller is a sophomore at EOU enrolled in the OSU Ag Business program. He grew up on a wheat farm and, upon graduation, plans to return to the family farm and work to enhance his own operation.

This cooperative award has been given to OSU students since 1962 in honor of late Paul Carpenter. Carpenter served as an OSU extension marketing specialist for almost 30 years before retiring in 1954. He was executive secretary and lobbyist for the Agricultural Cooperative Council of Oregon for 40 years and was a leader in Oregon's cooperative movement.

WVSC announces scholarship recipients

Co-Chairs Barbara Hayes and Nancy Snider, and the four-person experienced scholarship award selection committee of the Willow Valley Service Club, announce the awarding of a $600 vocational/technical scholarship to Sibbea Jones and a $600 academic scholarship to Shelley Rietmann.

Sibbea Jones, Heppner, starts a one-year certification program in Equine Massage Therapy at the Full Circle School of Alternative Therapies in Edwards, CO in October.

Jones, 17, completed a four-year high school course of study in three years, maintaining over a 3.0 grade average, and was employed.

The eldest of five children, she resides with Bruce and Elizabeth Pettibone and her siblings, and enjoys Tae Kwon Do and horses, especially her horse, Paige. Currently, she is visiting family members across the United States.

Shelley Rietmann, Heppner, starts a four-year program at Pacific University at Forest Grove, on Aug. 22.

Rietmann, 18, graduated from high school with a 4.0 grade average and was an outstanding athlete: participating in volleyball, basketball, and softball. She cheered her teams on even when she, herself, was injured, and has been successful in community activities, especially 4-H. She resides with parents Mark and Tami, younger sister, Shanna, and her pet dogs. She is employed through the summer babysitting at the JDR Farms.

"WVSC is pleased to honor these two deserving young women," said a spokesperson.
