Karen's Korner

Thursday, Nov. 21 is the American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout. This is their 26th annual event; a great time for many folks to begin thinking about letting go of tobacco's grip. Put that cash you would have spent, toward a special Christmas gift (in addition to your longer life). I can guarantee you will have a fantastic sense of accomplishment come New Year's Day.

Perhaps some of you saw the Nov. 14 Oregonian article: "Study sees inflammation as key heart attack cause." "Significant new research suggests inflammatory proteins within the body play a bigger role than cholesterol." The study involved 28,000 women and it found that those with high levels of the inflammatory protein were twice as likely as those with high cholesterol to die of heart attacks and strokes. The sources of this interior, sometimes painless, inflammation is still under study.

The good news is that people can significantly lower their inflammatory protein levels by even modest improvements in their living habits such as exercising, controlling their diet, controlling blood pressure and giving up tobacco use.

This next item is from a data analysis by Dr. Mark Schuster and colleagues from UCLA, reported by Reuters Health and published in the November issue of the Archives of Pediatrics and Adolescent Medicine. "More than 20 million U.S. children are exposed to secondhand smoke in their homes, raising their risk for asthma, hospitalizations and missed days of school..."

Strangely, it's just not the children of smokers who are exposed to secondhand smoke. Some nonsmokers with children said they allowed other residents or visitors to smoke in their homes. Could this be fellow apartment dwellers, or relatives who come to visit? Could it be that nonsmokers felt uncomfortable requesting them to step outside to smoke for fear of offending? With the holidays coming and visits to family and friends, let us consider the health of all of our children.

approximately one month and when he returned home he found approximately 60 feet of fence gone. Said it looked like a motor vehicle accident. A taillight and cigarette lighter was recovered.

-MCSO received a report of a residential burglar alarm, motion in living room, at Irrigon. All was clear.

-MCSO received a report from a caller that she had had no contact with subject for three days and subject has been suicidal in the past. Subject called MCSO an all is okay and said he would contact the caller.
