Volunteers needed at Boardman Grasslands

The Nature Conservancy invites those interested in protecting the ecology of Boardman Grasslands to participate in a volunteer work party on this Saturday and Sunday, May 10-11. This preserve is located in the gently rolling hills south of the Columbia River near Boardman. Sandy flood-deposit and loamy lakebed soils host excellent examples of globally rare Columbia Basin habitat types: four native bunchgrass communities, four sagebrush-steppe communities and one bitterbrush community. The Conservation Area and adjoining military lands harbor Oregon's largest viable population of the Washington ground squirrel, listed in Oregon as an endangered species. The grassland and shrub-steppe habitats also host a suite of sensitive bird species, such as ferruginous hawk, loggerhead shrike, sage sparrow, grasshopper sparrow, long-billed curlew and burrowing owl, as well as a diversity of other wildlife.

Registration is required. For more information or to register, contact Molly Dougherty at (503) 230-1221 or Leslie Nelson (541) 298-1802. Participants should bring a lunch, water, and appropriate clothing, including work gloves and sturdy hiking shoes.

Directions to Ione meeting site: participants will meet at 155 E 3rd Street (corner of South B Street and East 3rd Street). From the Ione Market in downtown Ione, drive east three blocks to B Street, then south three blocks to 3rd Street.
