School speed zone changes start July 1

A new law in Oregon aimed at clarifying the definition of school zones goes into effect July 1. The law specifies speed and signing requirements in two areas: school zones adjacent to schools and school crossing zones away from school property. The law also distinguishes between roadways where speed limits are 30 mph or less and those that are 35 mph or greater.

School zones adjacent to schools on roads with a posted speed limit of 30 mph or less are 20 mph zones at all times, according to the new law. That applies 24 hours a day, seven days a week, year-round.

"That means that the speed limit will be 20 mph at all times, early in the morning, on weekends, on holidays," said Doug Bish, traffic services engineer for the Oregon Department of Transportation. "The new rules may be difficult for motorists to memorize, so they need to watch carefully for the new signs. Their best way to avoid a ticket is to obey whatever the signs say."

In school zones on roads where the posted speed is 35 mph or higher, times of the 20 mph speed limit will be defined by one of two options. Signs will post specific hours, or flashing lights will signal when the 20 mph speed limit is in effect.

Three options are available for crosswalks not adjacent to school grounds. The reduced speed limit will be in force when lights are flashing, when children are present, or during posted hours.

"Drivers will need to be careful to read the signs," Bish said.

The change is the result of Senate Bill 178 passed by the Oregon Legislature last year in an attempt to clear up confusion about what constitutes a school zone, and when speed limits are reduced.

"Legislators wanted to eliminate any indecision about when drivers needed to slow down," said Troy E. Costales, administrator of ODOT's Transportation Safety Division. "Schools and school grounds get used more than during class times. The law isn't about protecting property. It's about protecting kids."

Troedson Grant recipients announced

The selection committee for the Carl W. Troedson Educational Fund has awarded grants-in-aid in the amount of $1000 to the following Morrow County high school seniors for the 2004-05 school year:

Heppner High School: Blake Allstott, Justin Botefuhr, Brian Haguewood, Judd Lemmon, Luke Murray, Courtney Nelson and Ivy Zimmerman.

These grants are awarded from a fund provided by the last will and testament of Carl W. Troedson, a prominent wheat rancher of the Ione area.

These students will be eligible to apply for renewal of their grants in the following years of their college or training programs provided that they maintain good academic standing during their first year of post high school study.

The selection committee consists of the Morrow County School District Assistant Superintendent, the pastor of the Valby Lutheran Church and the Morrow County Judge, as specified in Troedson's will.

Award of the Troedson grants was announced at the recipients' respective high school graduation ceremonies.
