The 2005 MS Walk was held April 23 in Heppner and saw 106 walkers come out in support. There was also 20-plus volunteers working in many areas including registration, rest stops and breakfast service.

Amongst the walkers there were 14 teams from the local area as well as from Spray, Hermiston and Moro.

Pledges received on the day of the walk totaled $9148, said Merilee McDowell, walk coordinator, and more pledges are coming in. "I am sure we are going to make our $10,000 goal this year," said McDowell. Pledges can be accepted until May. Donations are used for medical research, client community services, administration and fundraising.

Heppner Elks Lodge performed extremely well at a recent competition

Officers of the Heppner Elks Lodge performed extremely well at a recent competition of the Oregon Elks N.E. District Annual Ritual contest. The event was held at the Hood River Elks Lodge, with 10 teams from N.E. District Lodges eligible to participate. Claiming first place in three categories was Heppner's Exalted Ruler Tony Clement, taking Best Exalted Ruler, Most Impressive Performance and Best Eleventh Hour Salute.

Other officers claiming honors were: Lindsay Kincaid, Leading Knight-third place; Colin Anderson, Loyal Knight- fourth place; Marc Orem, Lecturing Knight- seventh place; Josh Coiner, Esquire- third place; Wade Smith, Chaplain- second place; Shad Jeffreys, Inner Guard- fifth place, and Tom Wolff, Candidate- first place. The Heppner team, judged as a whole, took second place overall. Hood River claimed first place in the team competition.

Tom Wolff and Roger Mortimore were the coaches for this year's team, with special coaching advice from Carl Lino, of John Day, who has been a national Elks Ritual Contest judge and National Ritual Committee member.

The Heppner team spent many hours in rehearsal, having each member memorize their respective parts. The Ritual process is used to initiate new members into the fraternal organization.
