Pesticide applicators workshop

Do you have a pesticide applicators license? Do you need re-certification credits to maintain your current pesticide applicators license? Did you know that for a private pesticide applicators license you need 16 credit hours over the five-year life of your certification (only 8 hours can be in one calendar year)?

A re-certification workshop for pesticide applicators will be held Tuesday, Nov. 29 at the Isobel Edwards Hall at the Fairgrounds in Fossil. The training will be presented by county weed personnel and ODA staff, as well as other knowledgeable persons and will cover such topics as, re-establishment after burning or spraying, the Medusahead project, weed I.D., effectiveness of different chemicals, PURS, etc. The training will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and will provide 8 hours of re-certification credits. You may attend all or part of the day. Each hour will count as 1 hour of credit.

Registration fee for the training will be $15. Lunch will be provided. Please RSVP to the Wheeler County Extension Office at 763-4115.

A private pesticide applicator license is required of those who use or supervise the use of "restricted-use" pesticides on land in agricultural production that they or their employer own, lease, or rent. This includes farm land, ranch land, forest land, nurseries, and orchards. No license is needed if only "general use" (non-restricted) pesticides are used. To qualify for this license, an individual must receive a passing score on the Private Pesticide Applicator Examination. Once the applicant passes, he/she becomes "certified" (eligible to obtain a license) and may submit a license application and fees to Oregon Department of Agriculture (ODA) to obtain a private pesticide applicator license. Both the license and the certification period expire on December 31st of the fifth year of certification. (Just passing the required examinations alone does NOT mean an individual is licensed, you must complete the licensing process by submitting an application and the proper fees to ODA.)

Recertification is the process of renewing pesticide certification. This may be accomplished by either of two methods: Accumulating the required number of credit hours during the current certification period by attending training programs accredited by the ODA, -or- Retaking and passing all required examinations.

Private applicators must accumulate a total of sixteen (16) credit hours during their certification period. Four (4) of these hours must be "Core" training and twelve (12) can be "other" ODA-accredited training. No more than eight (8) credit hours (including Core) may be accumulated in any one calendar year (January 1 - December 31). Credit hour accumulation may begin the day after the licensee is certified.
