ODOT KEEPS OREGON BUSINESSES GOING STRONG

Oregon businesses are finding opportunities for growth with the Oregon Department of Transportation's OTIA III State Bridge Delivery Program.

The bridge program is repairing or replacing more than 300 bridges on Oregon's highways. This work stimulates Oregon's economy and keeps Oregon businesses strong.

Gladstone-based TLP GeoSpatial Solutions LLC is providing remote sensing, topographic, GIS and aerial mapping services for the bridge program. The company recently won three contracts worth more than $120,000 to provide high-accuracy topographic mapping in Hood River and the Columbia River Gorge National Scenic Area, plus additional work at 17 bridge sites near Eugene.

As a result of these contracts, TLP GeoSpatial owner Tom Pagh has hired an Oregon-based small business as a subcontractor to provide additional services.
