GET THE BEST HELP

Approximately 80% of all homes sold utilize the services of real estate agencies. Of the remaining 20%, a significant portion are sold by owners directly to family members, co-workers, neighbors or friends. Very few homes are sold independently by owners to outside buyers on the open market.

A survey by the National Association of Realtors shows that of the sellers that did sell by themselves, only 15% said they would do it alone again. That means that 85% would hire an agency next time.

The major problems cited by sellers were, "Getting the right price, attracting buyers, having enough time to devote to all aspects of the sale, understanding and performing the paperwork, selling in the time planned on, and helping the buyer obtain financing".

Most people realize that a real estate transfer is a significant financial transaction and prefer to handle it the business-like way, that is, seeking the best professional representation possible.
