

Community Bank food drive challenges communities

This year Community Bank is conducting a Food Drive Challenge in all of their 17 branches. The goal is to collect 30 bins of food (32 gallon bins) combined in all the branches during the months of November and December. If this goal is met, Community Bank is donating a whole beef ($2,000 value) to the area where the most food was collected. In addition to the beef, the bank will donate $25 for each bin that is filled to that area's food bank.

In past years the bank has been doing a Penny Drive to raise money for local charities. Normally the funds go to the food banks anyway, so this year the Food Drive Challenge was created. Each branch has a bin in their lobby where non-perishable food is collected. There is also a Food Drive Tracking Chart so you can see where your branch is at, and how well the bank, as-a-whole, is performing towards the goal.

November is usually one of the hardest months for the food bank to fulfill the demand from area families. As a bin is filled, the items are delivered to the food bank right away, helping families through the holiday months. The food drive continues through December 31. On January 1 the winning area will be announced.

After one week, the Pendleton branch is in the lead with five bins filled, with La Grande's Valley branch at three bins.

To ensure your area is awarded the whole beef, donate to the local branch in your area.

Oregon East Symphony receives grant from Pendleton Rotary Club

The Oregon East Symphony has received a $1,500 grant from the Rotary Club of Pendleton. Funds from this grant will be used to support the "Young People's Concerts" to be scheduled early in the spring of 2010.

The Rotary Club of Pendleton is a strong supporter of youth activities in the Pendleton area. For several years they have supported the two morning concerts presented to area 4th grade students which feature winners of the OES "Young Artist Competition."

For more information about the Oregon East Symphony's regular Concert Season, special activities and educational opportunities for area young people, contact the symphony office at (541) 276-0320 or email oes@uci.net.
