UMESD hires new alternative education director

The Umatilla-Morrow Education Service District announces the hiring of Doug Gall as its new director of alternative education. Gall will begin his new role in August.

Doug Gall

Gall, who's been teaching fourth grade in the Umatilla School District since 2008, replaces Scott Lathrop, who resigned in June after seven years with the UMESD.

"Doug has a wide range of teaching and administrative experience, including being the principal of the River's Edge Alternative High School in Richland, WA," said UMESD Deputy Superintendent Michael Lasher. "Everyone I've spoken with about Doug has told me he was a wonderfully genuine and committed administrator and teacher."

Prior to coming to the Umatilla School District, Gall was the executive director of Teaching and Learning in the Richland, WA, School District, in which he coordinated and supervised curriculum and instruction activities for the district, including alternative programs.

Gall has served as either a teacher or principal in schools since 1977, when he received his master of education degree from the University of Puget Sound, where he also received his bachelor's degree two years earlier. Gall also has a master of education degree in school administration from Western Washington University and has post-graduate credentials from City University (ESA K-12 counselor) and Central Washington University.

Gall will oversee the UMESD's alternative education program, which includes the InterMountain Alternative Education Consortium, which provides educational services in an alternative setting to at-risk students. The IAEC includes alternative high schools in Pendleton (Hawthorne High), Hermiston (Hilltop High), and Milton-Freewater (Pleasant View High), as well as runs the educational programming at Riverbend Youth Correctional Facility in La Grande.

City of Boardman extends puncturevine program budget

Boardman City Councilors voted unanimously last Tuesday night to spend an additional $300 on a program aimed at controlling puncturevine. Originally the council voted to spend $300 on the program, which began in July. Due to the volume of participants, the money quickly ran out, with the city having to turn participants away in only the 3rd week.

This year the city began the program earlier in the year in hopes of collecting the weed while they're small, preventing them from producing seed pods.

The puncturevine and their seed pods need to be collected in bags provided by the city and returned to city hall to receive $3 per bag in July and $1 per bag in August, or until the budget has been spent. Bags may be picked up at Boardman City Hall anytime from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information on the program, contact Boardman City Hall at 541-481-9252.
