 tion plant near completion in Boardman, Oregon, and we develop our first commercial scale biorefinery, we are honored to be named in the 2011 Global Cleantech 100."
 The list is derived from Cleantech Group's own data and research combined with the weighted qualitative judgments of hundreds of nominations and the viewpoints of a global panel of 70 cleantech experts. To qualify for the list, companies must be independent, for-profit, cleantech companies that are not listed on any major stock exchange.

 "We are proud of how quickly the Global Cleantech 100 list has gained recognition as a leading resource in the cleantech sector," said Sheeraz Haji, Cleantech Group CEO. "Stakeholders including members of the corporate community, investors, and regulators now watch the Global Cleantech 100 list closely to gauge which sectors look most promising and which companies are poised for growth."
 Global Cleantech received 4,274 nominations this year for companies in more than 45 countries. These companies were weighted and scored to create a short list of 213 companies presented to the expert panel for final input. The end result was 100 companies from 16 countries.

 The 70-strong expert panel is drawn from well-respected organizations in cleantech innovation from around the world, including leading investors in global cleantech and from a wide variety of corporations across many different industries, such as BP, Coca-Cola Company, DuPont, GE, General Motors, Procter and Gamble, and Vestas.

Stroke & osteoporosis screenings in Heppner

The Christian Life Center in Heppner will host a Life Line screening on November 16, 2011 at its church at 535 West Morgan. Residents in and around Heppner can be screened to reduce their risk of having a stroke or bone fracture.

Stroke is the third leading cause of death and a leading cause of permanent disability, yet 80% of stroke victims had no apparent warning signs prior to the stroke. According to a statement by Life Line, preventative ultrasound screenings can help people avoid strokes. They also say that screenings are fast, noninvasive, painless, and convenient.

Life Line urges all adults to get these screenings, because they can help avoid potential cardiovascular conditions such as blocked arteries and irregular heart rhythm, abdominal aortic aneurysms and hardening of the arteries in the legs, which is a strong predictor of heart disease. A bone density screening to assess osteoporosis risk is also offered and is appropriate for both men and women.

 Packages start at $149. All five screenings take 60-90 minutes. For more information or to schedule a screening, call 877-237-1287 or visit www.lifelinescreening.com. Pre-registration is required.

A View from the Hill

By Doris Brosnan
 Most adults view lying as improper, immoral, unnecessary, unwise, and/or simply wrong. Lying invariably becomes a topic of discussion for every parent and young child, when the parent tries to convince the child that telling lies is not acceptable.... Correct?
 Apparently, these are generally accepted statements that have a lingering hold on individuals, as witnessed at Willow Creek Terrace on September 17. Taken from their amazing book of special days, the "Big Whopper Liar's" observance did not seem to even tempt a single resident. "The bigger the lie, the better" advice did not hold a candle to "Do not tell lies!" advice that harkened back to days of youth. Not a single resident seemed inclined to take a chance on entering the liar's contest that day.

Residents also passed on a few other suggested special-day competitions during the past few weeks, but they did not turn their backs on the miniature golf course arranged in the commons area. They and many of their visitors enjoyed the course several times, but not competitively, except in trying to beat their previous scores.
 Residents also enjoyed listening to and watching the staff on a couple of special calendar days, while declining to join them in "talking like a pirate" and chewing gum to pay tribute on September 30 to that ubiquitous oral prop.

 Competition is not part of many of the special observances at the Terrace, however. Residents and staff most often simply welcome knowing about the special days on the calendar and benefiting from related activities. On October 5, Apple Betty Day was on the calendar of special events, so the day's dessert was a given. Angel Food Cake Day was observed on the 10th in a similar fashion, and National Chocolate Cupcake Day was equally welcomed on October 18.

Discussions and debates remain favorite benefits of these national days of observation, also. Some residents at the Terrace were willing, on October 2's Guardian Angel Day, to tell one another about their guardian angels, and a few, during the National Pet Peeve Week of October 9-15, were not hesitant to vocalize about those wee things that run them nuts! A list of "Pet Peeves" continues to be compiled when a new one is remembered. But that week of grouching was sandwiched in between conversations on World Smile Day on the 7th and Evaluate-Your-Life Day on the 19th, both of which accentuated the positive: feelings prompted by smiles and individuals' accomplishments, proud moments and strange occurrences.

Other positives will surely create an uplifting atmosphere at the Terrace as October progresses. Mabel Heath will celebrate her 90th birthday with her friends and neighbors on the 25th, definitely a day for positive thoughts. And residents will be invited to Make-a-Difference on the 22nd and to think long and hard on Annual Forgiveness Day, October 29. What the discussions will be on the 23rd is anyone's guess, since that will be National Mother-in-Law Day, but October 31 is sure to be a positive for everyone because that is Monster Monday, the day of the Halloween Party with the preschoolers.

On October 31, lunch will also be a special event, for it will be the Anniversary Lunch for Dick and Virginia Wilkinson. Friends might want to come by to wish them well and even try to find out their secret to such a successful union. The continuing longevity of their marriage is viewed by the Willow Creek Terrace community as an especially worthwhile reason to toast the couple and think about the many positives in everyone's life.

And residents and staff are positively eager to welcome a new neighbor to their abodes on the Hill. One apartment is now available, so anyone who views this as an opportunity not to be missed should call 541-676-0004 or come by the Terrace to inquire.
