Oregon farmers support local schools through Farmers Grow Rural Education

Oregon to receive up to $55,000 for math and science programs across the state

For the second consecutive year, America's Farmers Grow Rural Education, sponsored by the Monsanto Fund, will give Oregon farmers the opportunity to enhance math and science programs in their communities. Now until April 15, farmers can nominate a local public school district to compete for a merit-based grant of up to $25,000. Administrators of nominated school districts may then submit grant applications through April 30. This year, the program expands to 26 new counties, for a total of 1,271 eligible counties across 39 states.

Following a successful pilot in Minnesota and Illinois, America's Farmers Grow Rural Education debuted nationally last year, awarding $2.3 million to school districts coast to coast. "We believe engaging rural youth in their math and science studies lays the foundation for a bright future," said Deborah Patterson, Monsanto Fund president. "This generation is the future of agriculture, and funding from the Grow Rural Education program helps ensure they are ready to be the next great leaders."

Morrow County is one of two eligible counties in Oregon, according to the Grow Rural Education official rules. Eligible farmers can nominate their favorite public school district by visiting www.GrowRuralEducation.com and following the "Nominate Now" link on the top, left-hand corner of the page. Farmers may also nominate a school district by calling 1-877-267-3332.

Grants will be awarded by the Monsanto Fund based on merit, need and community support. The America's Farmers Grow Rural Education Advisory Council, a group of 30 farmer leaders from across the country, will select the winning grant applications. Advisory Council members were selected based on their passion for agriculture and education, as well as experience in rural school districts.

America's Farmers

Grow Rural Education is part of the Monsanto Fund's overall effort to strengthen America's farming communities.

Another program that is part of this effort is America's Farmers Grow Communities, which gives winning farmers the opportunity to direct a $2,500 donation to a community nonprofit organization in their county.

For more information about the America's Farmers Grow Rural Education program and to view the official rules, visit www.GrowRuralEducation.com.

Work continues on Hwy. 74 rock fall

Backhoes like this one have become a familiar sight near milepost 35 on Hwy. 74, where travelers between Lexington and Ione can expect short delays, usually between 10 and 15 minutes. The work is part of a rock-fall project that will cut back part of the rock face to help reduce the amount of falling debris onto the highway. Work is expected to be complete by mid-march. -Photo by April Sykes
