4-H club can't handle the excitement...

...But they can sure handle hogs

The Heppner Hog Handlers say they are looking forward to celebrating 100 years of the Morrow County Fair and Rodeo.

The Hog Handlers are wrapping up a busy year that started in February with monthly meetings of club business, activities and record keeping. Field trips, car washes and a barbecue also rounded out the year. The Heppner Hog Handlers group recently hosted a successful livestock judging refresher open to all 4-H members in Morrow County, and they are also planning on organizing a 4-H members' float for the parade this year. All Morrow County 4-H members are encouraged and welcome to ride.

The members are currently busy painting the ceiling in the annex building with a new bright coat of white, along with putting the finishing touches on their hog projects.

Clean Clean Clean!

It's hard work getting the fairgrounds ready for the centennial fair.

Knowing that, most of the 2013 Morrow County Fair livestock exhibitors still pitched in a few helping hands and joined fair staff in cleaning the 100 years of dust that has collected around the grounds.

From painting to raking, these students worked hard to earn their weeklong fair pass, while Heppner Family Foods kept the water coming to keep the workers hydrated and ready to get the grounds shining with pride.

Now that they've put in all that work, the 4-H and FFA members and fair staff say they hope to see everyone out and enjoying the big celebration at the 100th Morrow County Fair.

Please join us for lunch to help celebrate
