Boardman discusses truancy ordinance

At the Oct. 15 city council meeting, the Boardman City Council reviewed a proposed ordinance creating a truancy curfew for anyone between the ages of seven and 18 who is required to attend school.

Councilors voted to approve the first reading of the ordinance, by title only, and are scheduled to consider its adoption at the Nov. 5 meeting.

The ordinance was proposed after concerns about the number of school-aged children around the community during school hours were brought to the attention of Boardman Police Chief Rick Stokoe.

The city has consulted with the school district about the proposed truancy ordinance and, if adopted, would give law enforcement a tool to support the school in truancy policies.

Two other ordinances had their first readings Tuesday night. Both relate to language changes in the Municipal Code pertaining to the Code Compliance/Animal Control policies and the penalties for Municipal Code violations.

In other city business the council approved giving the Boardman Christmas Decoration Committee up to $2,000, and they passed a resolution for temporary parking on NE Boardman Avenue for residents of the Trail Apartments while construction is underway.

The next meeting of the Boardman City Council will be Tuesday, Nov. 5, at 7 p.m.

CenturyLink connects teachers with technology

PORTLAND, OR—CenturyLink, Inc., in partnership with the Organization for Educational Technology Curriculum (OETC), is connecting teachers with technology for the classroom.

The CenturyLink Clarke M. Williams Foundation's Teachers and Technology grant program, administered by OETC, this week opened the application process for teachers in CenturyLink's local service areas who want to innovatively implement technology in their classrooms to increase student achievement.

"With technology such a normal part of our everyday lives, teachers are constantly finding new and creative ways to use technology in their classrooms," CenturyLink Oregon vice president and general manager Chris Denzin said. "This is a great opportunity for CenturyLink to help by identifying those teachers, recognize them for their innovation and support them with grants to expand their use of technology in the classroom."

Over $70,000 in grants were provided to schools across Oregon for the 2012-2013 school year, including schools in Milwaukie, Bend, Portland, Baker City, Cottage Grove, Harrisburg, Redmond, Tigard, Cave Junction, Pendleton and Salem.

To learn more about the program or to apply for a grant, visit <http://teach.oetc.org/centurylink/or>

The deadline for applications is Tuesday, Jan. 10, 2014. CenturyLink service is neither required nor considered in the review of applications.
