Neighborhood Center gets neighborly gift from local insurance company

The Neighborhood Center in Heppner recently got a boost in stocking its Christmas shelves thanks to the efforts of some local Wheatland Insurance employees.

The first part of the gift was a check for $780 from the Heppner branch. Nancy Snider of Wheatland explained that Heppner Wheatland employees brought donations to their company Christmas party, which the Wheatland company then matched.

"That'll pay for our turkeys, I bet," said Neighborhood Center director Janice Skaggs, referring to the boxes of food the center hands out to local families every year. Skaggs said the boxes contain everything for Christmas dinner, plus some.

"All they have to do is cook their dinner," she said. Realizing Christmas is also a time when kids are home from school, Skaggs said the boxes also contain a few extras for family meals, such as hot chocolate, macaroni and cheese, pudding, and bread and peanut butter for sandwiches.

So far, the center has had applications for 66 boxes of food.

Also part of the presentation Monday in Heppner was a couple hundred pounds of canned food. Snider said the canned goods came from both the Heppner and Lone branches as part of a company-wide food drive. Lone donated 116 pounds of canned goods, with Heppner contributing another 131 pounds, which the employees at those branches chose to donate to the Neighborhood Center.

Overall, all Wheatland branches combined brought in more than a thousand pounds of food, which every branch donated to a charity of choice.

Skaggs said she was delighted with the gift, which will not only help fill the Christmas boxes, but will also help carry them over into January, when, she said, people still need help but the Neighborhood Center shelves are often a bit bare.

Anyone interested in donating to the center can call 541-676-5024.
