

Ione 1,000 Yard Shoot winner announced

IONE—The winner of this year's Ione 1,000 Yard Shoot, held on May 3, was Rick Barnett.

Hunting enthusiasts competed for a cash prize by shooting at a 1,000-yard target, which is a metal gong the size of a 27" TV. Barnett donated his winnings back to the event, which is a fundraiser for kids' prizes at the fishpond and other games at the annual Ione Fourth of July Celebration.

Marc Gaffrey was the winner of the gun raffle for a Howa 1500 Game King Package .38 rifle. This year there was also a 100-yard, freestyle shoot-out for a guided fishing trip for four; the winner of the package was Bob Gray.

This year's event sponsors were Joe and Frank Halvorsen, Mark Anderson Construction, Keith Rea, Howard and Jerry Mullins, Bullseye Camera System, Ace Outpost Store, Eastern Oregon Tactical, RDO, Bob Hubbard, Morrow County Grain Growers, Garners Sporting Goods, Snow-McElligott, Bragg Rifles, Magnum Opus, Route 74, and Fish Slayer Guide Service.

awake, they're asleep. I'm not really the homesick kind but it's been hard not to be able to talk to them when I want to." What did you like best?

"There are so many things. Here you just know everyone. At home I only knew the people in my class. It's like a second life; it's really cool for me." Did you go to prom? What was that experience like?

"In Germany we don't have dances in school. We have clubbing but you can't really compare them. I'd never been to a formal dance like that. I was actually really sick but I still went because this is the only prom I'll have in my life! I think Germany should have a prom." Any last thoughts?

"I think if people want to change (host) families, they should. Even if it's just for a couple of months, it can make a huge difference if you're not comfortable. I had one sister at the other house (in Boardman) but we didn't really talk. Now I have two and we get along."

Bank of EO employees participate in Teach Children to Save day

Sandra Van Liew, customer service representative, and Meghan McCabe, teller, from Bank of Eastern Oregon's Heppner branch gave a savings lesson to kindergarten through third grade students at Heppner Elementary School. This is the ninth year BEO participated in the American Bankers Association Education Foundation's Teach Children to Save Program.

Sharon Rietmann, branch manager, and Taranna Patton, customer service representative, from the Ione branch gave the savings lesson to kindergarten through third graders at Ione Community School.

Bank of Eastern Oregon employees joined thousands of bankers across the country who traded in their balance sheets for blackboards to help fill the need for financial education.

"Studies show that kids aren't learning the skills they need to make smart financial decisions as adults," said Jeff Bailey, president and CEO. "Communities and schools teach other life skills, but we don't spend enough time teaching financial skills. Bankers were in the schools during April to help fill that gap and prepare future customers for financial success."

Bailey said a significant number of were reached by the staff of Bank of Eastern Oregon in the eastern Oregon rural communities it serves.

"We use our previously announced partnership with Everfi Financial Literacy program to further enhance the financial education of the youth in our area," added Bailey.

The lessons taught included activities about the concept of saving,

Local woman's youthful glow wins recognition

Kelly Boyer of Lexington has a claim to fame that may not be considered all that common in an area of wheat farms and cattle ranches. The 56-year-old grandmother recently won a contest because of her youthful skin.

Boyer, a lifelong Morrow County resident, has been using a skin product called Prototype #37-C for the past three years. When she learned the company was having a contest to show the results of their product, she decided to give it a go.

"I thought, 'That could be fun. I could use the money, free product.' So I entered it and won," she said.

Boyer said the product was in the top 10 facial products in the U.S. last year. It must be good, because Boyer—who has a 33-year-old daughter who lives in California with her family and a 27-year-old son in graduate school at Lewis & Clark College—beat out competition of all ages for the top spot.

"I was shocked because it was open for all age groups," she said.

Boyer won cash and free products; she said she donated the cash to charities. In addition to the prizes, she serves as something of a company spokesperson, with her picture and testimonial on company's website.

The results, said

Boyer, are the real deal. No "Photoshopping" was used for the contest, and she said she isn't even wearing makeup in the after photo.

"I went to beauty school in the 70s," she said. "I guess skin and hair had always been important to me."

Boyer's testimonial can be seen at <http://www.prototype37-c.com/#scrollTestimonials>.
