Garden ministry springs to life

The new Hopeful Saints Ministry garden, developed this spring behind the Lutheran parsonage on Alfalfa Street, will soon be providing fresh produce for members of the community who can't grow their own—whether limited by space, time or ability.

Assistance with weeding, watering or harvesting in exchange for produce will be welcome but is not necessary, and deliveries can be arranged for the home-bound.

Before heading to the garden, please call the Shared Ministry office at 541-676-9970 to inquire about the availability of produce or any help needed. Signs will also be posted around town as various crops mature throughout the summer.

This garden project was made possible in part by a grant from the Oregon Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, and the donation of labor and materials by many members of the Shared Ministry.

It is intended to supplement the twice-yearly food boxes filled by local churches and distributed at All Saints Episcopal Church, no questions asked, to anyone in need.

Misplaced mail

To the Editor:
I ordered a package and had it delivered to the post office; it was received by the local post office but I never received it or a notice that I had a package.

I was first told that I may have misplaced it and then maybe it was put in someone else's box. Then I was told to contact the company and maybe they would send me another one. This is not the company's fault nor mine. It's the post office's fault.

If you received a package by mistake that was addressed to me, would you please return it to me.

Thank you,
LaRae Kindle, Heppner

Correction

An error was made in last week's story regarding the Ione Texas Hold 'Em poker tournament that took place Saturday, June 25. First place went to Brian Doherty with second place to Tim Patton rather than first to Patton and second to Doherty as was reported. Pictured from L-R: Marvin Padberg, poker tournament chairman; Brian Doherty, first place; Tim Patton, second place; Terry Snyder, third place; Virgil Morgan, fourth place. Event coordinators reported a small turn-out but a "fabulous time," and said they were able to present the Ione Fourth of July with a "very nice contribution to the cause."
