

Hardman Community Center news

The dining room project continues to move forward. Kevin from Ruggs Ranch installed the drywall, which was donated by Mel McDaniel, on the south wall during the last month. And on the July 10, Bob Allen, Mel and Rick McDaniel, and Claudia Smythe continued progress, while John Koch worked some more on researching the community center organization.

Bob Allen completed the maintenance that he had been working on throughout the month and his granddaughter painted trim for the south wall for us during the week.

Mel and Bob got the electrical issues figured out and trim carpenter extraordinaire Rick McDaniel finished the north wall ceiling trim. This wall was pretty saggy from the years, even with being jacked up and tied off, but reports are that you can't tell that now. Claudia Smythe wiped down the ceiling in preparation for sealing later this month. John Koch provided everyone with a chicken lunch.

If everything goes as planned, the groups says members will be installing wallpaper donated by Sam Martin, under his direction—as no one else has ever done this on a large scale—on the next workday, August 7 at 9 a.m.

Other projects in the "works" are staining and sealing the tables and painting the kitchen, both funded in part by Snow-McElligott. The last large project will be sanding and sealing the kitchen floor. Sam Martin is in charge of this one, too, as they have a sander and have done this before. The photo, brochure, and genealogy projects are progressing with a few glitches here and there, but all in all "it's coming together," members report.

And they had their first event, the McDaniel Family Reunion last Sunday.

The group also reports they had several people stop by last week and take a tour. If you would like a tour, call the secretary at 541-676-9718 or email her at hcc@hughes.net and she will make arrangements for one of the "Bobs" to take you through.

Finally, a special mention goes to Columbia Basin for stopping by and restringing the flagpole.
