Little Birds Cardinal camp coming to Ione

The Ione High School volleyball team will be hosting a Little Birds Cardinal Camp for all local incoming first through fourth grade students and fifth through eighth grade girls only August 20-21 at the Ione High School gym.

The registration cost is $30 per player, which includes a free Cardinal t-shirt. All money raised will go toward providing gear for the high school team.

Campers will learn the basics of volleyball skills, such as passing and serving, playing together as a team, how to move about the court and have a great deal of fun playing together as future volleyball players. It is an inclusive camp, welcoming students from all local schools (and their visiting friends and family as well).

"Little Birds Camp is such a great way to get our younger kids really involved in understanding and being excited about volleyball. It brings them together before the season and ups their enthusiasm about the new school year and all the fun they'll have playing and cheering for their hometown teams," said Ione's head coach Becky Wagenblast.

The registration form may be found via a link on the school's homepage, www.ione.k12.or.us. Contact Coach Wagenblast at ionecardinals@ione.k12.or.us with any questions.

A View from the Hill

By Doris Brosnan

New faces, new neighbors, temporary or permanent, are always viewed with pleasure at Willow Creek Terrace. And on Monday, Raul Silva relinquished his newest resident status to two new personalities. Raul moved into the Terrace on June 6 from his previous Heppner home and held the title for almost two months. For a thirty-day respite care while recovering from an injury, Gwen Healy joined friends and new faces in July while waiting to return to her Heppner home. The staff, reports administrator George Nairns, has enjoyed helping Gwen improve so she can say "Ta-Ta" next week.

Moving into an apartment two days ago, Glen and Joyce Ward will be sharing their positive energy with the community on the hill. The two longtime residents of Heppner were greeted by several long-time friends and other familiar faces. Their new home means being a bit closer to one of Glen's favorite places, their cabin at Penland Lake and they are not much farther than their previous home was from their favorite Wednesday evening night-out spot.

August continues to be an ice cream sort of month at the Terrace, but readers are assured that also featured on the menu is fresh produce from Heppner's Farmers Market on Fridays. Cool treats and fresh eats equal summer bonus.

Another treat on the 20th will be Nairns' homemade lemonade, in celebration of that refreshing drink's introduction in Paris in 1620. Always when Nairns makes her fresh lemonade, she thinks of Roice Fulleton, previous resident who really, really liked lemonade.

This month's one scheduled outing for residents who are interested will be to the Morrow County Fair on the 15th. Still awaiting access to a premium book, Nairns reports that entries by the Terrace in the Fair will depend on several circumstances. This reporter suggested that their

Port of Morrow barge extension service receives MARAD approval

The U.S. Department of Transportation's Maritime Administration (MARAD) has approved the Port of Morrow's Project Designation request for the Port of Morrow Barge Service Extension. Thirty-four projects have been approved under the Marine Highway Program and the Port of Morrow is only one of three projects on the west coast.

The new designation allows the Port to pursue additional federal funding for infrastructure improvements needed to make the barge service extension a reality. Expansion of the existing service will leverage the underutilized Marine Highway 85 Columbia and Snake River System to reduce transportation

Hippies and Woodstock's 50th anniversary will be up for discussion on National Hippie Day, August 17. Yet to be learned is whether or not any Terrace residents attended the festival that was advertised as "Three Days of Peace and Music." One low estimate of the number attending Woodstock is 400,000, though only about 50,000 were expected and sort of prepared for. Many stories are still told of this festival in the Catskill Mountains, maybe some told by area residents who were there.

Other topics for morning discussion included Girlfriends on the 1st and Sisters on the 4th. On the 13th, Left-Handers will be celebrated and some right-handers might be challenged to give it a try. Hawaii will be discussed on the 16th, celebrating its entry as a new state in 1959. Who knows what will be brought up about Strange Music on the 24th, but The Wizard of Oz will be an easy topic when discussed and then viewed on the 25th, celebrating its 1939 release. Everyone will surely have something to say about Women's Equality on the 26th when discussing women's right to vote granted in 1920.

Poets' Day, on the 21st, will feature an enjoyable event. The Terrace community is inviting other individuals to join them that afternoon to share their reading of poetry. Anyone interested should call 541-676-0004 to get details and to sign up. Everyone is expecting, and hoping for, a variety of poems to be heard.

The Terrace will end the month with lunch on the patio, as they celebrate National Eat-Outside Day on the 31st. It will finish up a month of new neighbors, a temporary neighbor, in-house activities, at least one outing and some interesting discussions. These are a few reasons that life on the Hill is viewed as full of variety for anyone interested in participating.

Fire crews respond to new ignitions

Fire crews on the Umatilla National Forest are responding to new smoke reports following passing thunderstorms Sunday evening. Significant lightning activity occurred across much of the Forest, with approximately 15-20 new incidents on the Umatilla National Forest reported so far to the Blue Mountain Interagency Dispatch Center (BMIDC) and John Day Interagency Dispatch Center (JDIDC).

Local initial attack resources have been busy responding to these incidents with support from aerial resources. The majority of these fires are staffed and remain small, less than one acre in size. However, more smoke reports are expected throughout the next few days. Aerial reconnaissance and fire lookouts are assisting with detection efforts.

With increased dry weather, fire officials want to remind everyone that the current fire danger rating remains at HIGH and public use restrictions involving chainsaw use are in effect. Similar restrictions may be in effect on state and private lands protected by the Washington Department of Natural Resources (WADNR). More information can be found on the WADNR website at: <http://www.dnr.wa.gov/>.
