Judging by the ginormous pile of yard debris and the trailerful of other castaways, our Heppner homes must be looking and feeling tidier in and out. This opportunity from the city continues by Riverside Street through next Monday.

The weather couldn't have been more cooperative last weekend for anyone wanting to do yard work, and it seems to be enhancing the growth of all things green. Not everyone agrees, but I find pulling weeds or clusters of errant grass from the ground by their roots totally gratifying.

Five large green spaces around our community offer soothing places to relax, run, toss balls, etc., some with shade, some with tables and benches, all well-kept by the city crew. And, one last note related to our environment: Have you taken time to notice the lush, Crimson Norway Maples now gracing Main Street? Beautiful.

Pictures of HHS seniors also grace Main Street, banners on the lamp posts. Hard to peruse while driving, so they might be worth our parking and walking for a good look at these 36 students.

"Why did the bear

cross the road?" might be an unanswerable question, but last weekend, the family looking for mushrooms and a future camping spot on Willow Creek didn't stick around to see if they could discern a reason. The bear passed closely in front of their pickup not many minutes after they had been on foot hunting the fungi.

Last Thursday, from Woodburn, Linda Penland and her two daughters, Julie Grosz and Terri Bolman, visited Liz Jones Puckett. Liz and Julie had attended school together in Tigard. Linda's husband, Neal, who passed away two years ago, lived in Heppner in the 50s, when his parents, Robert and Gretchen, owned the Heppner Gazette Times. He graduated in the class of '61. Linda reports that they thoroughly enjoyed the Heppner visit because "Liz was so great showing us around town and taking us to places that had items about Neal. I so enjoyed the museum, especially that a man in the library called Peggy Fishburn at home and she came down and opened it up for us. I loved the things about Neal that we saw in there. Peggy asked if she could acquire Neal's military jacket for the museum, so I am going to send her the jacket and his sweater from Heppner High."

Kudos to Carson Brosnan, again. He will be a senior in the ROTC program at OSU next year and has been selected to be the Marine Midshipmen's

Commanding Officer.

Kudos to the HHS tracksters who as a team placed third in the 2A State Championships last weekend in Eugene: Hallee Hisler, Saige Jensen, Irelynn Kollman, Arianna Worden, Trevor Nichols, Hannah Finch, Joseph Sherman, Jacob Finch, Hayden McMahon, Ed Ellsworth, Connor Brosnan.

And hats off to the HHS boys golf, who were happy to be included in the state championships last week in Banks: Cody Fletcher, David Cribbs, Derek Smith, Landon Mitchell, and Paul and John Lindsay.

G-T editor, Bobbi Gordon, took a jaunt to St. George, Utah with two friends from Redmond, OR recently. She got a chance to visit and have breakfast with her granddaughter, Annabelle, on the way through Ogden. The tourists visited more big red rocks than they had ever seen before while visiting Zion, Bryce Canyon and the Valley of Fire. The trio left Redmond on a Thursday and returned a week later on Saturday, traveling and driving 2,659 miles.

Some positive tidbits to share after this coming weekend of remembering deceased loved ones as we decorate their resting places. Having good memories is a gift, sometimes a gift worth sharing: dbrosnan123@gmail.com or 541-223-1490. Here's hoping that some good news comes to everyone reading this.
