

A View from the Hill

The view of the Willow Creek Terrace as one approaches is apt to feature residents once again walking about and visiting and sunning themselves while enjoying the return of warmer sunshine.

Administrator Leann Lankford notes that several donations, gifts, and special services deserve special recognition this month.

Carl Lauretsen has surely saved the Terrace several hundreds of dollars and saved the Residents frustrations due to no coffee by repairing their commercial coffee pot. (Up to three pots of coffee quickly disappear at the Terrace breakfast tables!)

Chirella Wallace, accompanied by her charge, Young Master Kennedy, brought goodie bags for all the Residents for both St. Patrick's and for Easter holidays, adding to the attractive lunch tables and later to each Resident's sweet tooth!

Quince and Sharon Camarillo once again brought a tasty surprise to add to the Easter festivities, Sharon's homemade carrot cake.

Virginia Greib came to visit and to give the Community on the Hill a financial donation.

Susan Hisler brought a lovely bouquet of flowers for all to appreciate, following the St. Pat's weekend.

Virginia Peck gave the Terrace a new American flag. And she was surprised when three of her sister Rebekah's showed up to have lunch with her recently. Marlene Gray, Edith Padberg, and LaRae Kindle added to their surprise by giving the facility a financial donation.

Although Loop services are not ordinarily available on Saturdays, the administrator of the Loop program arranged for a bus to take Residents down to watch the St. Patrick's Big Green Parade. Eight Residents appreciated this treat.

Easter lunch featured ham and all that goes well with it, ending with bunny cupcakes. Kitchen coordinator, Jasmine Haak receives kudos for the menus and tasty meals coming out of the kitchen. Some of the desserts so well received are the creations of Cynthia Wenberg. The baked goods offered as prizes for the Bingo games are a hit, too!

The menu for Joyce Ward's 93rd birthday lunch of the 6th will please everyone, for sure. The other birthday at the Terrace this month belongs to the youngster on the staff, Annagrace Wenberg will be receiving congratulations all day, probably.

Glad to be back and part of the camaraderie at the Terrace, Flossy Watkins returned after about three months of rehab following surgery. Spirits were high when her neighbors saw her enter the door!

And spirits are rising with the outdoor thermometer, probably. Alex has been working in the flowerbeds on the warmer days, eager for more to come, and Residents look forward to the changes that will soon follow in those beds. They also look forward to the return of the Friday social hours, coming at the end of the month, for they view those and other added activities as welcome signs that good weather is here to stay for a while.
