TRADING AT HOME

An article in this issue presents some interesting facts regarding Gresham as a trading center. The character of our stores, the bigger and better stocks which our merchants are trying to carry, and the generally low prices asked for staple articles,—all these should commend themselves to the buying public.

It is worth much to trade at home even if an article does cost a little more. Generally the same article can be purchased at home cheaper than elsewhere. It is an expression of the pride that every citizen should feel in his own town and it gives a satisfaction in the end that pays.

One advantage is dealing with those you know and who know you. Any difficulties can be more readily adjusted. Another is keeping money in circulation in your own locality. The trading conditions will be improved just as fast as you—all of you—make it possible. Every dollar spent at home means a better store and a better town.

Then often a buyer has to ask for credit and usually the home store will accommodate those they know. Those who do so should have your utmost consideration. It is only favor for favor.

Two things seem too disgusting to think of. One is a man or woman racing all over the city to buy something which could be bought just as cheap at home. The other is a person running accounts with home merchants and then rushing to the city to spend their cash for things no better or cheaper than could be gotten at home.

CITIES OF THE FUTURE.

We are reminded every day of the fact that city life is destined within the next decade to undergo great changes. In a few years from now people will not live in the heart of the city. The development of means of rapid transit and the cheapening of fares will make it possible for the laborer and artisan as well as the professional man and capitalist to live many miles from the scene of his daily labors. Today many men have their homes five and ten miles from the heart of the great cities and a five cent fare and half hour ride takes them to their working places.

Tomorrow this distance will be doubled and next day trebled. When the already great city of Portland has again doubled her population Gresham will be known as one of its great suburbs. The greater part of Multnomah county is destined in the near future to become a great residence district for the people who have their business in and perform the duties which devolve upon them as citizens of a great metropolis.

The Outlook congratulates the milk producers of this locality on the step they have taken. We believe that the only way to insure a good quality of milk in our cities is to sell direct to consumer. The middleman cannot guarantee the product of another when it is so liable to be contaminated as milk is and it certainly would be more satisfactory to both sides if some arrangement could be made by which the consumer would be reasonably certain that he was getting what he paid for. We hope that the next gathering in about two weeks will be much larger for we believe that an organization of this kind will result in good to everybody concerned.

It is not too early to start the annual fight against the usual timber loss, believes the Oregon Forest Fire association, for this organization is in the field lining up timber owners to patrol their holdings during the dry season, seeking a more rigid enforcement of the law and co-operating generally in the good work. This association points out that 80 per cent of the value of the timber goes for labor and materials, thus giving the entire population a direct interest in preventing its destruction.

Big stakes will be offered in the race meet of the Portland Fair and livestock association to be held next September. Approximately $25,000 will be distributed in prizes, according to the plans of the directors, who meet early in May to pass officially upon the program. It has been decided to offer again the $10,000 purse for the 2:12 trot, which aroused so much interest among horsemen last year. In addition, there will be two new classifications the 2:08 pace and the 2:08 trot. Dates of the meet are September 4-9.

Estacada is to have a concert band. Where is Gresham.

Musicians of four states will gather at the third annual convention of the Northwest Music Teachers' association, which will be held in Portland June 7, 8 and 9. A program full of interest to the musical fraternity is being prepared, consisting of concerts, recitals, discussions, conferences and a banquet. The program is so arranged that it will not conflict with leading features of the Rose Festival, that will be in progress.

A force of six experts from the agricultural college will be sent into the field within the next week to start a general campaign against every form of fruit pest which exists in the state. This action is taken by the college authorities in accordance with the provision of a bill passed by the last legislature providing funds and prescribing the nature of the work to be done.

The national house of representatives passed a bill to increase its membership from 391 to 433 members. Insurgent republicans were particularly vigorous in opposing the increase declaring that if it were not for the democrats of those states that would otherwise lose members there would be general sentiment in favor of keeping the membership at the present figure.

Must Have the Price.

What is the subscription to the new periodical you have started? Two dollars a year. Is it intended for any particular class of readers? Yes, for those who have the two dollars.—Boston Transcript.

The Salem Board of Trade has arranged a unique boost for that city. Pastors of the local churches have been induced to devote one day to preaching the attractions of Salem and the first Sunday in May has been selected for the booster sermons.
