H. to report for jury service at the June term of district court.

Dairy Paragraphs.

Milk with clean hands. See that all seams in milk utensils are properly flushed with solder. Only well-tinned metal vessels should be used for milk.

Remember dirt carries bacteria which cannot be strained out of the milk, hence avoid getting dirt in the milk.

Place the cream in cold water at once after separating.

Never run the cream directly from separator into can containing the cream from previous skimming.

Never mix warm and cold cream. Stir the cream occasionally while cooling.

Keep the milk house clean, well lighted and well ventilated, and use it for no other purpose except milk and cream.

Do not keep cream in rusty milk cans, setters or buckets; the cream will not keep so well and the rusty utensils may produce a very objectionable metallic flavor. Stir the cream often so that it will be free from lumps. Only fresh, sweet and smooth cream can be sampled accurately. When cream is sour and in poor condition, the test is usually lowered. Use a regular milk stirrer, skimmer or long-handled spoon, for stirring cream; avoid wooden paddles because they are unsanitary. If properly cooled, and kept cool, cream will not be soured by a thunder storm.

Deliver the cream as often as possible; not less than three times a week during hot weather and twice a week in winter.

A ration must be palatable. Unless a cow likes a ration she will not eat it with relish. A cow must like her food in order to produce butter economically. A food that pleases the taste stimulates a greater flow of the digestive juices. Don't forget that the mechanism of the cream separator requires almost as close attention as that of a watch. Running at such a high rate of speed you may just expect it to be ruined if you neglect it in any way.

FIRST STATE BANK, GRESHAM, ORE.

Corn ensilage properly cured is one of the best and most economic foods for stock. It is not, however, a complete ration for milk cows, and should be fed in conjunction with clover hay, pea hay, or millet.

G. W. Patterson, the Iowa dairy expert, says: "Many people ask the question, is it economy to allow the cow to grind her own feed or to grind it for her?" Many experiments have been carried out on this line, and it is the consensus of opinion that it pays to grind the feed. With some cows, if the feed is given in an unground condition, an amount is wasted, due to undigested portions which pass through the animal. Grinding causes a more rapid and a more thorough digestion."

Don't forget the speed-limit number of turns of the handle to the minute of your separator, as it takes but a very slight variation in it to cause a loss of cream and greater wear and tear on the machine. Time yourself, accurately, now and then, to guard against any possible mistake in this respect, and remember that a steady, even speed is absolutely essential to get the best results.
