

FAIR DIRECTORS MEET MONDAY

There will be a meeting of the directors of the Grange Fair next Monday, beginning in the forenoon. It will be a very important meeting as the time of the fair is less than two months off and much remains to be arranged for in preparation for this fall's event.

It is probable that a manager will be chosen at this meeting who will oversee the collecting and arranging of exhibits and look after the other innumerable things which it left to everyone will be done by no one.

It is expected to make a special effort to have everything in readiness so that the first day will be as big and interesting a day as the last.

A program will be drawn up, giving the special features of each day. It has been suggested to make Thursday Farmer's Day and Gresham Day and invite the farmers from Multnomah, Clackamas, and Washington counties, Oregon, and Clark county, Washington, to visit Multnomah county's agricultural fair at Gresham. This ought to be THE GREAT DAY.

It has been suggested to make Friday Fraternal Day and have competitive drills by local and visiting societies.

Saturday will of course be Portland Day and whatever else will make it the Greatest Fair Day that the sun ever shone on in this part of Oregon since the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

Sunday the amusement features will be done away with and something of a musical and literary character will be furnished appropriate to the day.

The premium list is now on the press and will be ready for distribution soon. It offers some very attractive prizes and all are worth striving for. The list of awards has been carefully revised and represents the best the director could do with the funds available. It should stimulate everyone to prepare the best exhibit possible.

The fair buildings will be painted and the grounds put in good shape. This has been a banner year for agriculture and the exhibits should be better than ever. The exhibitors and the directors have had the experience of other fairs and hence should avoid the mistakes and improve on the successes of the past.

Additional Gresham Locals

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Larson entertained Rev. W. M. Coffee and wife last Saturday and Sunday while attending the Free Methodist quarterly meeting.

Mrs. E. P. Wood is spending a few days with her son Guy Wood at Montavilla.

Miss Ruby Emery spent Sunday with the home folks.

Thos. Glinder and Miss Lillian and Mr. and Mrs. Harms of Portland, returned Tuesday from their outing at Welches.

Sig. Knighton made a business trip to Sandy yesterday.

The Mt. Hood transmission camp has been moved from Cottrell to the gravel pit west of town. Poles are now being set along the line in town. Gresham merchants are using the Outlook to offer tempting bargains to their customers.

While the family was absent Tuesday morning working in the potato field, the house of F. H. Ferris, located one mile south of Fairview, was burned to the ground with all its contents except one trunk. Only a small insurance was carried.

Funeral of Mrs. Levina Carlson.

The funeral of Mrs. Levina Carlson was held at the home of her mother Mrs. Isabel Leland, at Hurlburt, Tuesday afternoon, and burial was at Hurlburt cemetery. Rev. Mr. Robinson preached the funeral sermon.

Mrs. Carlson was 25 years old. Her husband was drowned about three years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss, a mother, a sister, Mrs. Ella Potter of Portland, and Isaac of Gresham. She was a sufferer from tuberculosis of which she died. She had made her home with Arthur Leland in Portland until six months ago, when she went to Hurlburt where her life closed.

PLEASANT VALLEY

Mrs. Agnes Crane, Mrs. Minnie Studley, Mrs. J. C. Neppach, Irene Studley, Antonia Neppach and Tiffany Crane were guests of Mrs. M. Kronenberg Thursday.

Mrs. S. H. Sheerer, who was thrown from a buggy and taken to Good Samaritan hospital is reported to be improving and will return home Friday. We hope she will have a speedy recovery.

Mr. Kronenberg's valuable Scotch collie dog was run over by an automobile, breaking his back which necessitated his having to be shot. Cause, due to speeding. Need more auto cops.

Mrs. Middleton is reported to be improving.

Miss Florence Taylor was a caller in this vicinity Saturday.

A very pleasant picnic was held on the banks of Johnson creek at Jenne Station by the following young people from Portland: Misses Lotie Delaney, Irene Studley, Antonia Neppach, Messrs. Sylvester Ulrich, Walter Doyle, Carl Neppach, Tiffany Crane of Vancouver, B. C. After enjoying a good time they all repaired to M. Kronenberg's where the evening was passed with instrumental and vocal music when they left on the 9 o'clock car for Portland.

Mrs. Hammond and daughter Vida were visitors at E. S. Jenne's Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kronenberg and daughter Cecelia, Mrs. L. P. Manning, Louise Howard, were callers at Birch cottage, the home of M. Kronenberg.

L. P. Manning, carrier for route No. 3, is enjoying a much needed rest and Miss Mary Hansen is serving as substitute in his place. We receive our mail on time without any delay, which speaks well for the young lady.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Lynch are domiciled in their new home on the section line road.

A scheme to encourage the youth in agriculture is in vogue in Massachusetts and other states which is worth studying. The plan as outlined in the Pacific Homestead has been worked out practically as follows and has stimulated hundreds of boys and girls in that state to take hold of potato raising in earnest. This section may well profit by the experience of older localities. The time is coming soon when this industry will lag unless more scientific methods are employed.

In Massachusetts the organization known as the "potato culture" club, which is directed by the head of the department of agricultural education in the agricultural college of that state was formed to improve the potato crop. The method of work is scientific in its nature. It consists in the continued selection of seed from the high-yielding hills of a given variety. Other experimental work with potatoes will be taken up from year to year. This club now numbers about 200 members. It started with nineteen members three years ago. The club holds an annual exhibit and a "potato bake" at the college about digging time.

VISITATION OF GYPSIES

Hark, hark; how the dogs do bark! The beggars are coming to town; Some in rags, some in tags And some in velvet gowns.

Gresham has had a visitation during the week of beggars and fortune tellers. The recorder was away or they could have been gotten rid of quickly for there is a heavy penalty prescribed for fortune telling without a license. As it was, the people had to evidence the intrusion, the audacity and the insistence of these periodic visitors who pass through the country like a scourge.

One can't avoid a feeling of repulsion at sight of these creatures and the necessity of keeping an eye on everything movable in sight.

"Tell your fortune?" sounds innocent enough but the little black eyes are as busy as the glib tongue which utters the words and the fingers show a nervous twitch as though itching to get hold of something, and the loose folds of bright colored garments covering the little body are a fine hiding place for whatever can be "lifted."

One of these pests in her perambulations the other day called at the home of a shy little woman, whose babies clung to her in fear. "Tell fortune?" "No," said the woman. "Very cheap; tell un good?" "No; I have no money." In the meantime she had entered and sat down in the kitchen. "I'll tell it for 50 cents, if you let me have a cup of tea." "No." "Well, give me bread and butter and I'll tell it anyhow."

So the bread and butter was given and a few things fortunate and some unfortunate were related. "Something awful going to happen," said the fortune teller, "your baby will die within two weeks!" "I sell you charm worth $50; sell to you $2, save your baby."

"I haven't any money," insisted the mother, "and I don't believe in your trash anyway."

"You have some money—a little!" persisted the gypsy. "Your husband has some."

"I have some money in my bank," volunteered a little three-year old.

"Ah, I knew you had some," cried the beggar, grasping at the chance like a drowning person at a straw. "You surely would give two dollars to save your baby."

The black eyes sparkled, the hands grasped nervously after something as this emissary of the underworld—waited the result of this supreme argument.

"No; I don't believe in your black art; I won't buy your charm. Go! said the brave mother as she brushed the intruder toward the door as she would a sneaking dog.

Muttering invectives the hag beat a reluctant retreat.

YOUNG PEOPLE, GET THE BEST

There are during these vacation weeks many young men and women, many boys and girls who are halting between two opinions, what? One is debating whether to go to high school or begin active life with a common school education, another is pondering over the advantages of a college or professional course in addition to the high school training.

We are reminded more and more every day that the most efficient men and women in every walk of life are the men and women who have mastered the art of teaching themselves, men and women who do not have to be shown and taught every detail of their work, but who are able to see beyond the mere routine of work and formulate new plans, new ideas, study out new methods and processes which are original, useful and applicable to the particular work in hand. You may be born a natural genius for taking the initiative and inventing but the chances are you have been endowed with only about the ordinary amount of gray matter and what you become in life will be what you accomplish through training, so the first requisite in shaping your career is to train yourself to teach yourself.

Teachers are expensive and we must be always learning. Every day's work brings new lessons to be learned and unless we are equipped to learn them or have the teacher at hand, we do not learn that lesson, so we say again learn to be your own teacher. Our high schools and colleges are putting additional stress on this phase of their work every year and the young man or woman who makes reasonable use of their time while following these courses, will, whether their natural aptitude be great or small, matriculate with a much greater capacity for solving the problem of life than if they had never taken such a course. To be able to see where others are blind, to be able to create new ideas, to be able to think and concentrate ideas, to be able to solve difficult problems, not always purely mathematical, to have a judgment of your own and be able to correct the mistakes or profit by the mistakes of others, in short again to be able to teach yourself is the solution of the problem. He who is not able to do this will be always at the bottom or only part way up the ladder, but the young man who enters merchantile life with a trained mind certainly has an advantage over the other fellow, the young woman who starts out on a stenographic career with a college degree may have to begin lower down than she would like to but she will surely make up for the humble beginning by being able to grasp more readily the details of each peculiar problem and make herself indispensable to her employer. The man who carries an A. B. or Ph. B. may feel that an agricultural career is humiliating but the country needs more such men behind the plow and in the orchard and stock barn. The woman possessing a college sheepskin may despise the humble lot of a homemaker but we need more college bred wives and mothers, women who will be a real helpmate for man in his remissness and mothers who can grasp the true significance of parenthood. To those who are debating whether to go or not to go to school, we would say under most circumstances you will do the right thing by yourself, by your friends and family, by the commonwealth in which you live, by your country and by the great God who created you when you yield to the voice within calling you to higher attainments and yield up present pleasure and profit for the sake of learning how to teach yourself.

Tribute to Heroism.

Orin Johnson has received the following letter from Mr. Kelly, father of Ezra Kelly. It is a fine expression of appreciation and puts such a premium on real heroism, the kind shown on that sad occasion that we print it in full.

Montfort, Wis., July 26, '11. Dear Orin—We wish especially to thank you and the other boys for all you did in trying to rescue Ezra.

We feel that everything was done that was possible to do, and there is comfort in that thought. You doubtless knew him well enough to know that he also would have done all he could for you if the conditions had been reversed.

We shall always remember and appreciate your efforts to save him. Your friends, The KELLY FAMILY.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank the many friends who so kindly assisted us during the sickness and death of our beloved wife and sister.

S. E. CARD AND RELATIVES.

"From Portland to the mountains look out for the Outlook."

DEATH OF MRS. ELLA CARD

At 11:30 o'clock on Tuesday night the grim monster death, came into our midst and took from us our dearly beloved friend, Mrs. Ella Card.

Although she had been sick for two weeks, having had two light strokes of paralysis, she seemed so much improved during the last few days that her sudden death was indeed a terrible blow to us all. A third stroke of paralysis was the cause of her death. The funeral was held at the Methodist church of which she was a member and was conducted by Rev. J. F. Dunlop of Gresham. The remains were laid to rest in the Damascus cemetery, a large and grief-stricken concourse of relatives and friends paying their last sad tribute to one who has gone from us forever, but whose memory casts a ray of sunshine across our paths.

Ella Kate Spencer was born in the state of Ohio in 1844, February 1st. Her mother having died when she was a mere child, she was reared to womanhood among strangers.

In 1879 she was married to Silas E. Card of Oroville, Calif., where they resided a short time, thence coming to Oregon. They lived a few years in Lane county, then came to Boring, which has been their home for the last 23 years. She leaves a grief-stricken husband, a brother Daniel Spencer of Springfield, Oregon, three sisters, Mrs. Miles Case of Albany, Oregon, Mrs. John Blue of Orloff, Calif., Miss Carrie Spencer of Knoxville, Iowa, and a host of sorrowing friends.

There are some interesting things in the Outlook ads. this week.

MOUNTAINS ARE POPULAR

O. J. Brown and wife of Rock and John Brown and wife of Gresham went up to Welches and Toll Gate last Monday by auto. They stayed Monday night at Welches and had a fine trip. They returned Tuesday by way of Marmot and Bull Run.

Mr. Brown says he has been over these roads many times and is glad to see the great improvement that is being made in roads and also the many new summer homes especially at Welches and Brightwood. The names of Wm. Welch and John McIntyre, founders of the resorts named, are household words in this part of Oregon. Aschoff's, or Marmot, is also a popular resort and an attractive place for tourists.

At Welches H. E. Davis, W. W. Cotton and John Roberts have built bungalows on the Robert's tract adjoining Deer Park.

In Deer Park all the river frontage has been taken. This is one of the finest locations along Salmon river.

Among those who have purchased lots and have built or are building cottages in Deer Park are Chas. Gedamke, Mr. DuPuge, Chas. Kadlerly, John Shattuck and Dr. F. Short, Mr. Watson and Mr. Edwards, of Dwight-Edwards company. Geo. and Ed. Sleret are located on an island in Salmon river near Deer Park.

J. T. Friel, Jr., at Cherryville, has an exceedingly attractive location which is becoming more and more popular.

Mr. Brown predicts that with the new and improved facilities for travel, and the better roads the mountain resorts will draw large numbers of summer tourists and campers.

Supporting Oregon Factories.

This community and every other community in the state of Oregon should do all in its power to support Oregon manufacturers. The home consumption of "Made in Oregon" goods not only means the up-building of the manufacturing industries which already are operating in this state, but also that if the people of the state show an inclination to buy "Made in Oregon" goods that manufacturers from other states will come to Oregon with factories. The incoming of more factories and the increasing employment of men and women by the factories already established in Oregon will help build up the farming communities and small towns. Money kept within the state by the purchase of "Made in Oregon" goods means money saved to every individual, and "money saved is money earned."

Millions of dollars are sent from Oregon every year to Eastern mail order houses for goods which could be purchased at home, not only to the benefit of the purchaser of the goods but to the benefit of his neighbors and every man, woman and child in the state. Is it reasonable that mail order houses in Chicago, Philadelphia or St. Louis, or any other place, can sell to you any cheaper than your home merchant? You must pay the freight, and you buy goods that you have not seen. You must pay cash for the goods, and yet you never have the opportunity of sending back the goods if they are not satisfactory.

There is not a merchant in this town who will not sell to you as cheaply as the mail order houses. You have an opportunity to examine the goods and of exchanging the goods after you get them if they do not suit you.

This issue of the Outlook contains many ads. which are worth reading. Don't overlook them.

Bids Wanted.

Bids will be received at the office of school clerk of District No. 28, for 16 cords of wood, six cords to be delivered at the Lynch school and ten cords at the Buckley school.
