"The Linotype Way is the Way that Wins."

Entered as second-class matter March 3, 1911, at the post office at Gresham, Oregon, under the act of March 3, 1879.

TRUE WORTH

For what would you sell the record of your past life? Would you give it away as practically useless? or would you gladly bury it and have it out of sight forever? What you do with your past will affect your future. It may be that it has been worth little to others and to you but you are the only one who can make it worth anything in the future. The past is gone; yesterday is no more. It is all summed up in one word, "experience." The future is yours for "applied experience." It is not, how much you have gained, but, the use you make of it which will determine the measure of your success in life.

A big lumber cut doesn't mean a big cut in prices, if the $200,000,000 lumber combine is a fact.

Why are eggs 9 cents per dozen higher in San Francisco and Seattle than in Portland?

Sugar is fast becoming a luxury indeed. Jobbing quotations have reached $7.35 per hundred.

Pendleton's great Round-up Will be the second year of the only show West show begins today. This is of its kind in the west.

The dry old state of Maine will still stay dry. This was the decision of its voters last Tuesday by the small majority of 365 votes.

Low colonists rates start today and thousands of tourists start for the west. If we lower our land prices a little some of them may be induced to stay here.

September's rainfall, though the month is only half over, has broken all records for years. The amount of rainfall has been over four and a half inches. The normal rainfall for September is less than two inches.

The state road commission asks the governor to call an extra session of the legislature to pass on a good roads law. The grange is taking an active interest in the road legislation and may have a large say in regard to the kind of a road law wanted. The last legislature turned down the several measures or they were vetoed, leaving Oregon without a good roads law. It is believed the time has come for immediate and united action to aid in state development.

Some of our people think they must have slipped a cog or two and waked up in December, judging from the weather. This isn't the only evidence that some have been asleep and are just waking up. Many are rubbing their eyes and beholding the improvements and changes going on in Gresham and wondering what it all means. Alas, there are some who are still asleep and don't know that next week will be fair week!

September Rains.

Dry weather is all very well in vacation time, but when one has to go to work he wants rain. In particular he wants the Oregon kind of rain, which falls bewitchingly in slow, gracious drops that kiss the earth as they bring down their blessings upon it. When the rains come we are all good natured. The September showers wash away our crankiness and tantrums. Nobody could be cantankerous as the drops play their soft music on the roof. It stills the heart's complaining. It hushes the voice of care and the heart that heeds its teaching, as all hearts do for a while at least, wears the grace of angels.—Weekly Oregonian.

Opportunity.

There never was a time since "chances" were offered when the intelligent, industrious and frugal man or woman could embark in business with as good a prospect of success as today. And by business it is meant to cover the entire scale of human endeavor from the most humble laborer to the person of means—practically from the pauper of the capitalist.

The great trouble with the majority of those who fail is that in their search for great things to do they neglect the small things. In looking for chances afar they overlook the dormant opportunities right at hand. They fail to take into consideration the fact that nine out of ten of the present day successful men started in life practically without means and won their way by strict attention to the first little duties entrusted to them, followed by larger and larger duties as they showed themselves worthy.—Weekly Oregonian.

Oregon fruit districts, and this includes about all the state, are looking forward to apple shows this fall. The best exhibits will be forwarded to the All-Oregon show at Portland, November 15-17. Points outside of Oregon, also, will have displays of apples at this show, making a collection of fruit that will be well worth viewing.

Editors of the state will be welcomed in Portland, September 21, 22 and 23, when the annual meeting of the Oregon State Editorial Association will be held. The convention will meet in the auditorium of the Portland Commercial club. The Portland Press club plans a special entertainment for visiting scribes.

SPECIAL ELECTION NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that on Monday, September 18, at the regular polling place, the Town Hall, in the Town of Gresham, county of Multnomah and state of Oregon, a special municipal election will be held for the purpose of authorizing the issue of $20,000 Water Bonds for the construction of a general water works for the Town of Gresham by an amendment to paragraph 22, of section 12, of chapter 5, of the charter of the Town of Gresham which said election will be held at one o'clock in the afternoon and will continue until seven in the afternoon of said day.

A flood of lava fifty feet high and one-third of a mile wide is threatening villages on the slope of Mt. Etna and 20,000 people have deserted their homes. Two villages are threatened with destruction.

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Thousands have testified to its superior excellence. Sold by Gresham Drug Company and all Dealers.

Forestry Bulletin.

Bulletin No. 1, issued by the State Board of Forestry, has just been received at the Outlook office. It treats of the forests of Oregon and their importance to the state and was prepared by Geo. W. Peavey, professor of Forestry, O. A. C. The pamphlet is full of facts and suggestions which every citizen should be more or less familiar with. It cannot lull ourselves into a feeling of security concerning the future of our wood supply on the supposition that the many substitutes for wood will lessen the consumption. The facts absolutely contradict such an assumption. It is true that we build our ships of steel; our bridges of steel and concrete; our skyscrapers of steel, concrete and glass; our dwellings of brick and cement blocks; our railway cars of steel, and in a thousand ways are replacing wood with other materials. Yet the amazing thing is, that the manifold demands of our complex civilization are such that the per capita consumption of wood is still on the increase. We use wood annually at the rate of 260 cubic feet for every one of our 90 million people.

Winter Short Courses.

The Oregon Agricultural college announces its winter short courses. They cover a wide range of subjects and give the farmer, the mechanic, the engineer, and the housekeeper, a splendid opportunity to get a special training in the most approved methods in their respective lines.

The Oregon Agricultural college offers for the coming winter, eleven distinctive short courses in the following branches: Agronomy, Animal Husbandry, Dairy Husbandry, Horticulture, Poultry Husbandry, Business Methods, Mechanic Arts, Domestic Science and Art, Forestry, Music and "Farmers' Week." Each of these courses, except the one in Mechanic Arts, will consist entirely of practical work in the blacksmith and woodwork shops or in the draughting rooms, will consist of a series of lectures supplemented by demonstrations and by practical exercises in the dairy, the orchard, and the various laboratories.

The work offered will be adapted to the practical needs of farmers, fruit-growers, dairymen, mechanics, or of women in the home. The subjects to be discussed are those in which every farmer or home-maker should be interested, and the aim will be to present them in the most practical manner possible. The laboratories, the shops, the creamery, the orchards, the college farm, the cutting, fitting and sewing rooms, the domestic science department dining rooms and kitchens all offer facilities for demonstrations or for practical exercises by the students attending these courses.

No examinations are required for entrance to these courses; but no one will be registered who is under sixteen years of age.

Constipation is the cause of many ailments and disorders that make life miserable. Take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, keep your bowels regular and you will avoid these diseases. For sale by Gresham Drug Company and all Dealers.

Profits in Poultry Raising

The profits are there, and the profits are great; but to get them you must apply right methods. You cannot learn from a book. Rules-of-thumb methods take time and often end disastrously. The right way is to be guided by poultry experts who have already "made good." This is the kind of instruction the International Correspondence Schools offer in their course of 21 home lessons in poultry raising. The course covers everything on poultry raising, from eggs to profits. It doesn't matter how few or how many birds you start with, this is the only true way to do it and make it pay from the word "Go."

The value of this course to you is beyond estimation. You soon get the price back, and more, in increased profits, and the knowledge that will keep those profits coming your way. Start poultry raising right, this way, then there'll be no failure—no halfway success—but the greatest success. For free descriptive circular, write the INTERNATIONAL CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOLS
