The fall season is now on. Have you provided for your fall and winter reading? The Outlook will keep you well informed on home affairs. A good city paper in combination with the Outlook will furnish you with all the news.

The Outlook acknowledges with thanks the many calls of friends during fair week both at the booth. Many new names have been added on the grounds and at the office. to our list. The souvenir cup was a favorite and called forth many comments for its ingenuity and utility.

According to the figures of the Purebred Livestock Association, Oregon is rapidly increasing the value of its cattle, horses, hogs and sheep. The report made at the annual meeting of this organization stated that last year horses and mules raised in the state brought the breeders $18,000,000 cattle $11,000,000, sheep and goats $9,500,000 and hogs $600,000.

The Outlook received last Friday three curiosities from E. White, who resides at 584 E. Ash street, Portland, and a member for three years of the 18th United States Infantry Illinois. The first is a copy of Vol. 2, No. 88, of the Ulster Co., county, New York Gazette and contains a full account of Washington's funeral. The second is a copy of "The Rebel" printed at Chattanooga, Tenn., Aug. 9, 1862. The third is a copy of The Daily Citizen, published July 2, 1863, at Vicksburg, Miss., two days before the surrender of that city to General Grant and is printed on a sheet of wall paper.

Irrigation of 20,000 acres in southern Douglass county is contemplated by 300 farmers living near Riddle. The project will be carried forward on the mutual plan and water will be taken from the Umpqua river. Chief crops in that section of the state are alfalfa, clover, potatoes and prunes.

"Two Apple Tree Borers" is the title of a new circular bulletin in the crop pest series issued by the Oregon Agricultural college. In it the author, Assistant Entomologist H. F. Wilson, describes the flat-headed apple tree borer and the round-headed borer, and gives the method of control for the pests. Although the latter is not at present known in Oregon, it is ordinarily more serious than the flat-headed borer in the East, and is therefore given some space in the discussion. Clean culture is advised by Mr. Wilson, with the removal and burning of all trees injured beyond recovery. The use of barriers of newspapers, untarred building paper, screen or cotton is advised and of carbolic whitewash.

A. L. MILLS, Pres. L. SAMUEL, Gen'l Mgr. W. H. MANKIN, Special Agt.

Three correspondence courses for farmers are now offered by the Oregon Agricultural college school of commerce. Dean J. A. Bexell, in a recent publication, outlines the work in farm accounting, rural law and rural economics which are designed to meet the practical needs of the farmer. Aside from a nominal entrance fee it is absolutely free to all who wish this aid, and the large correspondence already received indicates a heavy enrollment this winter. W. V. Kirkland of Hillsboro, in a letter to Dean Bexell, says: "After completing my course in farm bookkeeping, I have moved to a small ranch near Hillsboro, Ore. I now find how valuable my correspondence course is to me. It seems to me that without my records it would be like working without tools. I do not see why all farmers do not take more advantage of their Agricultural College. The benefits are so great at so little cost. I am writing this to simply tell you how much good the farm bookkeeping course has done for me and how I appreciate it"

Jas. J. Hill, the great railway magnate and conservationist, says that the only thing that will drive the people back to the land, is empty stomachs. He further says the cheap land available for agriculture is pretty well taken up. The solution of the production of enough food to feed the too numerous people engaged in industrial occupations is in a system of experimental farms.

The only way to reach the farmers is by guaranteeing them an increased crop if they will do things the way they are told. A man who has once actually done it never needs to be shown again. It is astonishing how great the variation is in the yield per acre. Twenty bushels of wheat to an acre, at 90 cents a bushel, gives a profit of $10 an acre, allowing $2.50 for rent and $5.50 for labor, seed and fertilizing. On an 80-acre farm that would mean $800 profit. Twelve bushels of wheat to an acre on a farm double the size would net a profit of only $408.

In 1860 practically 50 per cent of our population were on the soil. At present the percentage is about 30. There are three million less hogs in the United States than there were cattle. Our exports of grain are ten years ago, and nine million less steadily diminishing.

A professor in the University of Chicago told his pupils that he should consider them educated in the best sense of the word when they could say yes to every one of the fourteen questions he should put to them. It may interest you to read the questions. Here they are:

Has your education given sympathy with all good causes and made you espouse them?

Has it made you public-spirited? Has it made you a brother to the weak?

Have you learned how to make friends and keep them?

Do you know what it is to be a friend yourself?

Can you look an honest man or a pure woman straight in the eye?

Do you see anything to love in a little child?

Will a lonely dog follow you in the street?

Can you be high-minded and happy in the meaner drudgeries of life?

Do you think washing dishes and hoeing corn just as compatible with high thinking as piano-playing or golf?

Are you good for anything to your self? Can you be happy alone?

Can you look out on the world and see anything but dollars and cents?

Can you look into a mud puddle by the wayside and see anything in the puddle but mud?

Can you look into the sky at night and see beyond the stars? Can Creator?

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Thousands have testified to its superior excellence. Sold by Gresham Drug Company and all Dealers.

LIVE AND LET LIVE

In speaking of a person's faults, Pray don't forget your own. Remember those with homes of glass. Should seldom throw a stone. If we have nothing else to do But talk of those who sin; 'Tis better we commence at home, And from that point begin.

We have no right to judge a man Until he's fairly tried; Should we not like his company, We know the world is wide. Some may have faults, and who has not The old as well as young; Perhaps we may, for aught we know, Have pity to their one.

I'll tell you of a better plan, And find it works full well; To try my own defects to cure Before of others tell. And though I sometimes hope to be No worse than some I know, To those who little know, Remember curses, sometimes like Our chickens, roost at home; Don't speak of others faults until We have none of our own.

Forgive and Forget.

Traversing the valleys of the Willamette, Unqua and Rogue rivers, and going on to Kalamath Falls, the Oregon excursion, made up of Portland business men and prominent boosters, is this week getting better acquainted with Western and Southern Oregon. Traveling by special train, stopping at many points on the way and getting a close view of the resources and activities of the various sections, such a journey will be of great benefit to both city and country and a closer community of interests will be established.

A farm on wheels is practically what the O.-W. R. & N. special demonstration train to Morrow, Sherman and Gilliam counties will be next month. It has been termed the "hog and Field Special," and one car will be fitted up to represent the best ideas in raising hogs. Another car will be a miniature poultry yard, while a third will show methods of raising and feeding field peas. Several instructors from the Oregon Agricultural college will be on board to deliver lectures to the farmers along the way and give demonstrations of the best methods. When the train reaches Arlington, a convention of the Tri-County Development congress will be held.

The Cost of Faith.

The Rev. John M'Dowell told at Northfield of an express train which started out from Chicago for the Pacific coast. On board was the President of the road. As they rushed along in the darkness of the night, the train was wrecked. The president of the road hurried to the front. The engineer was pinned beneath the engine. As the president stood looking at the prostrate form, he saw his lips move and, leaning down, he heard the dying man say, "I know whom I have believed, and I am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day." "Jim," said the president, "I would be willing to give my life with all that I have for such a faith as that." "Mr. President," said Jim, "that is just what it costs."

Constipation is the cause of many ailments and disorders that make life miserable. Take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, keep your bowels regular and you will avoid these diseases. For sale by Gresham Drug Company and all Dealers.

Profits in Poultry Raising

The profits are there, and the profits are great, but to get them you must apply right methods. You cannot learn from a book. Rule-of-thumb methods take time and often end disastrously. The right way is to be guided by poultry experts who have already "made good." This is the kind of instruction the International Correspondence Schools offer in their course of 21 lessons in poultry raising. The course covers everything on poultry raising, from eggs to profit. It doesn't matter how few or how many birds you start with, this is the only true way to do it and make it pay from the word "go."

The value of this course to you is beyond estimation. You soon get the price back, and more, in increased profits, and the knowledge that will keep those profits coming your way. Start poultry raising right, this way, then there'll be no failure — no halfway success — but the greatest success. For free descriptive circular, write the
